A WORLD TO BE BORN UNDER YOUR FOOTSTEPS

An exciting and enlightening world waits to be born under our footsteps . . . The miniature world of the high school, representing all aspects of life, brings into focus the finest ideas and greatest knowledge of all the ages . . . it examines fragments of ancient cultures which found their greatness and then faded in the movements of ages . . . it extols the richness of our heritage as Americans and as a cultured people . . . More important, the environment of the high school stimulates today's youth to continue the tradition of education . . . it challenges an alert generation to find a cure for cancer, pilot a craft at the speed of light, and travel to new worlds . . . it provokes questions in eager minds — Why do men cry FREEDOM? Why is the age of atoms young? What are the humanities? Drawing from the vast resources of past cultures, the high school prepares potential businessmen, scientists, and statesmen to enter the complex and visionary world of the future.

From remote cultures in the distant past springs a modern and progressive world.

Art, music, literature, and alchemy are as ancient as the world itself.

The skilled instructor initiates ideas

The high school embodies a whole world of knowledge, which must yet be presented to the student by the competent instructor. The wise teacher projects his personality into his course . . . he guides willing pupils through difficult problems . . . he raises questions which stimulate activity beyond mere classroom work . . . he encourages the student to explore the vast range of American literature, to develop a personal theory about the evolution of music . . . he provides the impetus for a pupil to solve the "insolvable" algebra problem or construct a complex machine illustrating a scientific principle . . . The student-teacher relationship is indeed an invaluable one, for it provides the link between education and the human society, Western Hills and the world.

Under the guidance of Mr. Minesinger, Bill and Allen built a Tesla coil that won second place in physics at a science fair.

The multi-faceted

Showing the progression of literature from ancient to modern times, Mr. McFarland conducts a comparative study of Greek and contemporary plays.

Modern English reflects the past

In regular and advanced placement English classes, pupils at Western Hills study the art of communication as well as explore our rich literary heritage. In special classes such as Better Reading, Better Composition, speech, and journalism, students perfect necessary skills. This year, many viewed filmed lessons of Shakespearean plays and presentations such as "The Rivals" by local theater groups, both of which greatly enlightened daily classroom study.

Having mastered the Braille techniques, Richard Vonderharr and Mike Harcourt share many exciting reading experiences with fellow classmates.

Motivated by exhaustive classroom study of composition techniques, Sue Porter, Steve Cramer, Donna O'Hara, and Judy Kulstad join a creative writing seminar.

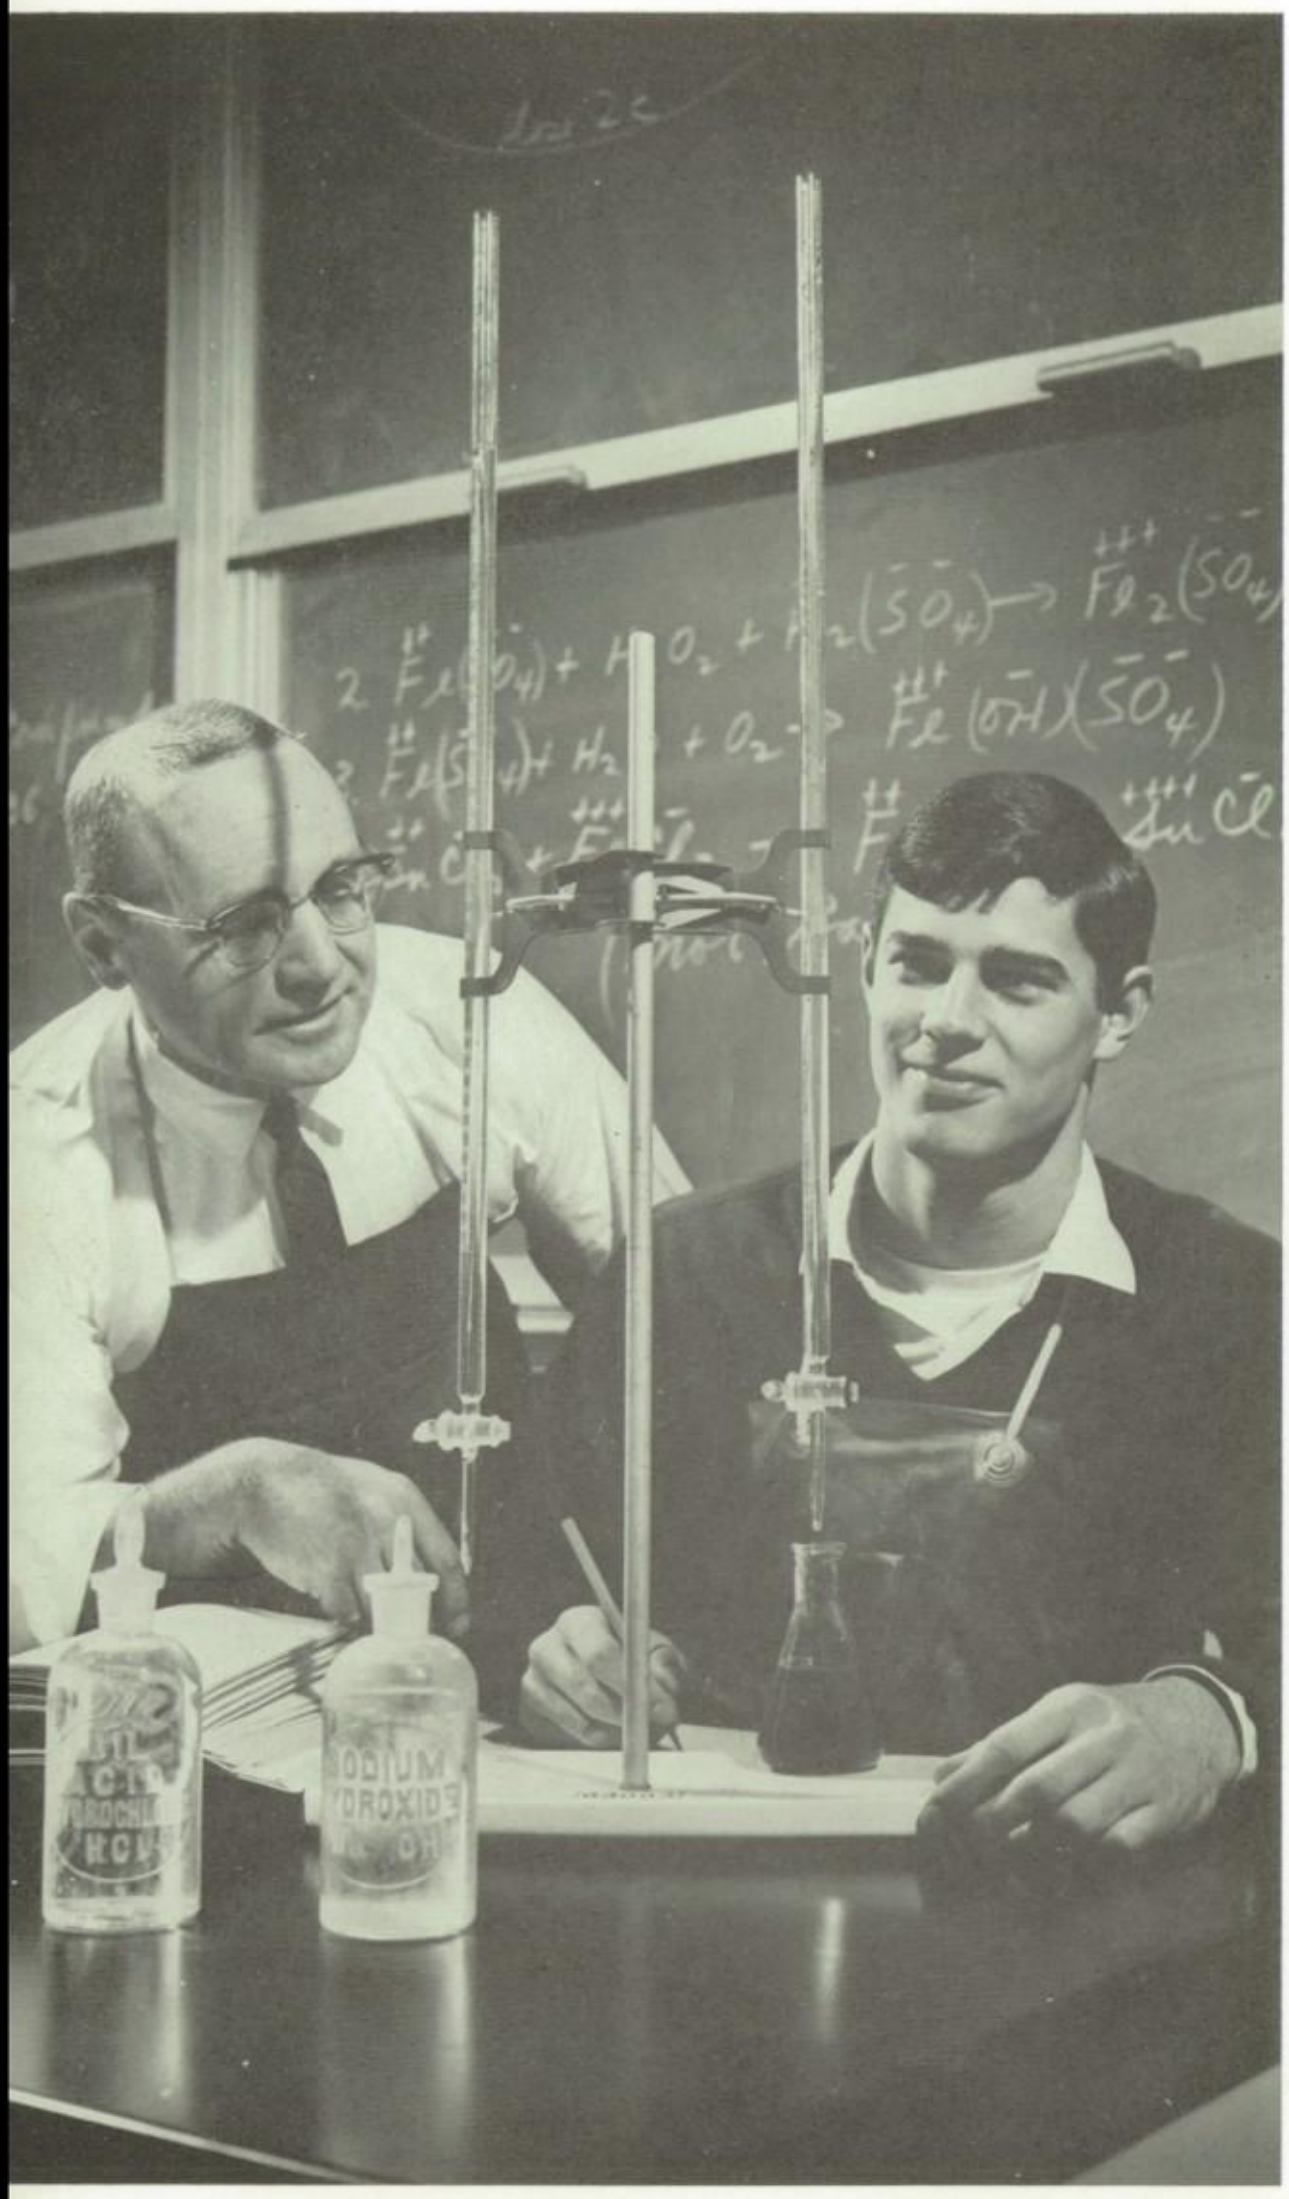
Accurate typing completes the final phase in the production of the business letter.

Business courses mold students for future vocations

Students come in contact with the expanding technology of today's world through the variety of business courses offered at Western Hills. Modern dictating machines, lines of files, and complex typing and copying equipment are all part of the bigness and perplexity of the fast-moving age in which we live. Business courses attempt to prepare the student for confronting the emerging complexity of automation and to train him for such work as IBM data processing, program analysis, and advanced advertising techniques. In preparation for government vocations, examiners administer the Civil Service tests and high-ranking pupils often find employment. Business English courses cultivate better communication skills, thus initiating young men and women for their future business careers.

Mary Baitz discovers the advantages of dictating through use of the audograph.

To prepare for profitable secretarial positions, to take rapid notes at a college lecture, or to further one's general knowledge—these are the aims of juniors and seniors in Miss Gerstner's Shorthand I class. Through timed writings and vocabulary exams, students increase transcribing proficiency.



Successful chemistry experiments often require the sound advice of such dedicated teachers as Mr. Richard Bathiany. Although when performing a titration, each student is encouraged to think for himself, Greg Fread is challenged by thought-provoking questions. This is just one example of the close student-teacher relationships found at Western Hills High School.

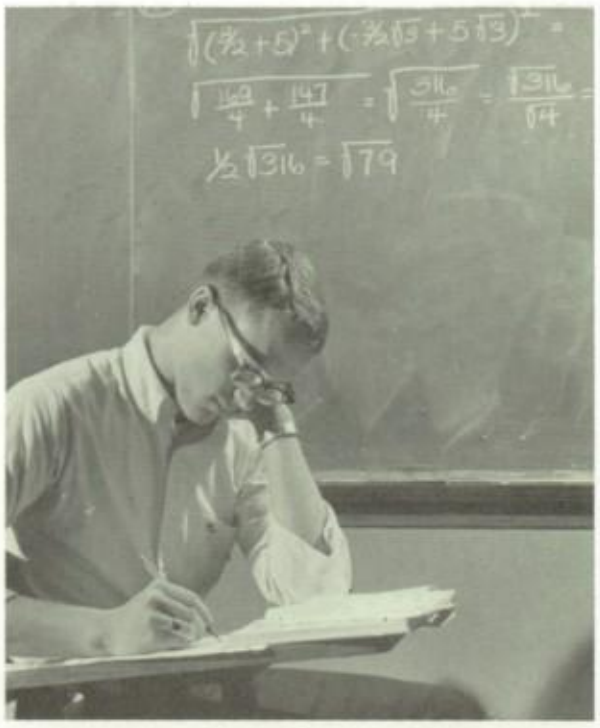
key to man's environment

Adapting to the student's increased curiosity in the world about him, West High recently stepped up its science program. A new and unique advanced physics seminar instructed by Mr. Minesinger required extensive research and term projects for students who had completed preliminary physics. Natural science classes stimulated pupils to roam nearby fields and stock insect collections. Mr. Fread's zoology course ended the year with projects to be entered in local science fairs.

Studying the parts of the fascinating human body becomes simplified for physiology senior Linda Meiners, as she uses the life-like mannequin.

Marveling at the intricacies of a frog's organic structure is Kerry Kalmbach.

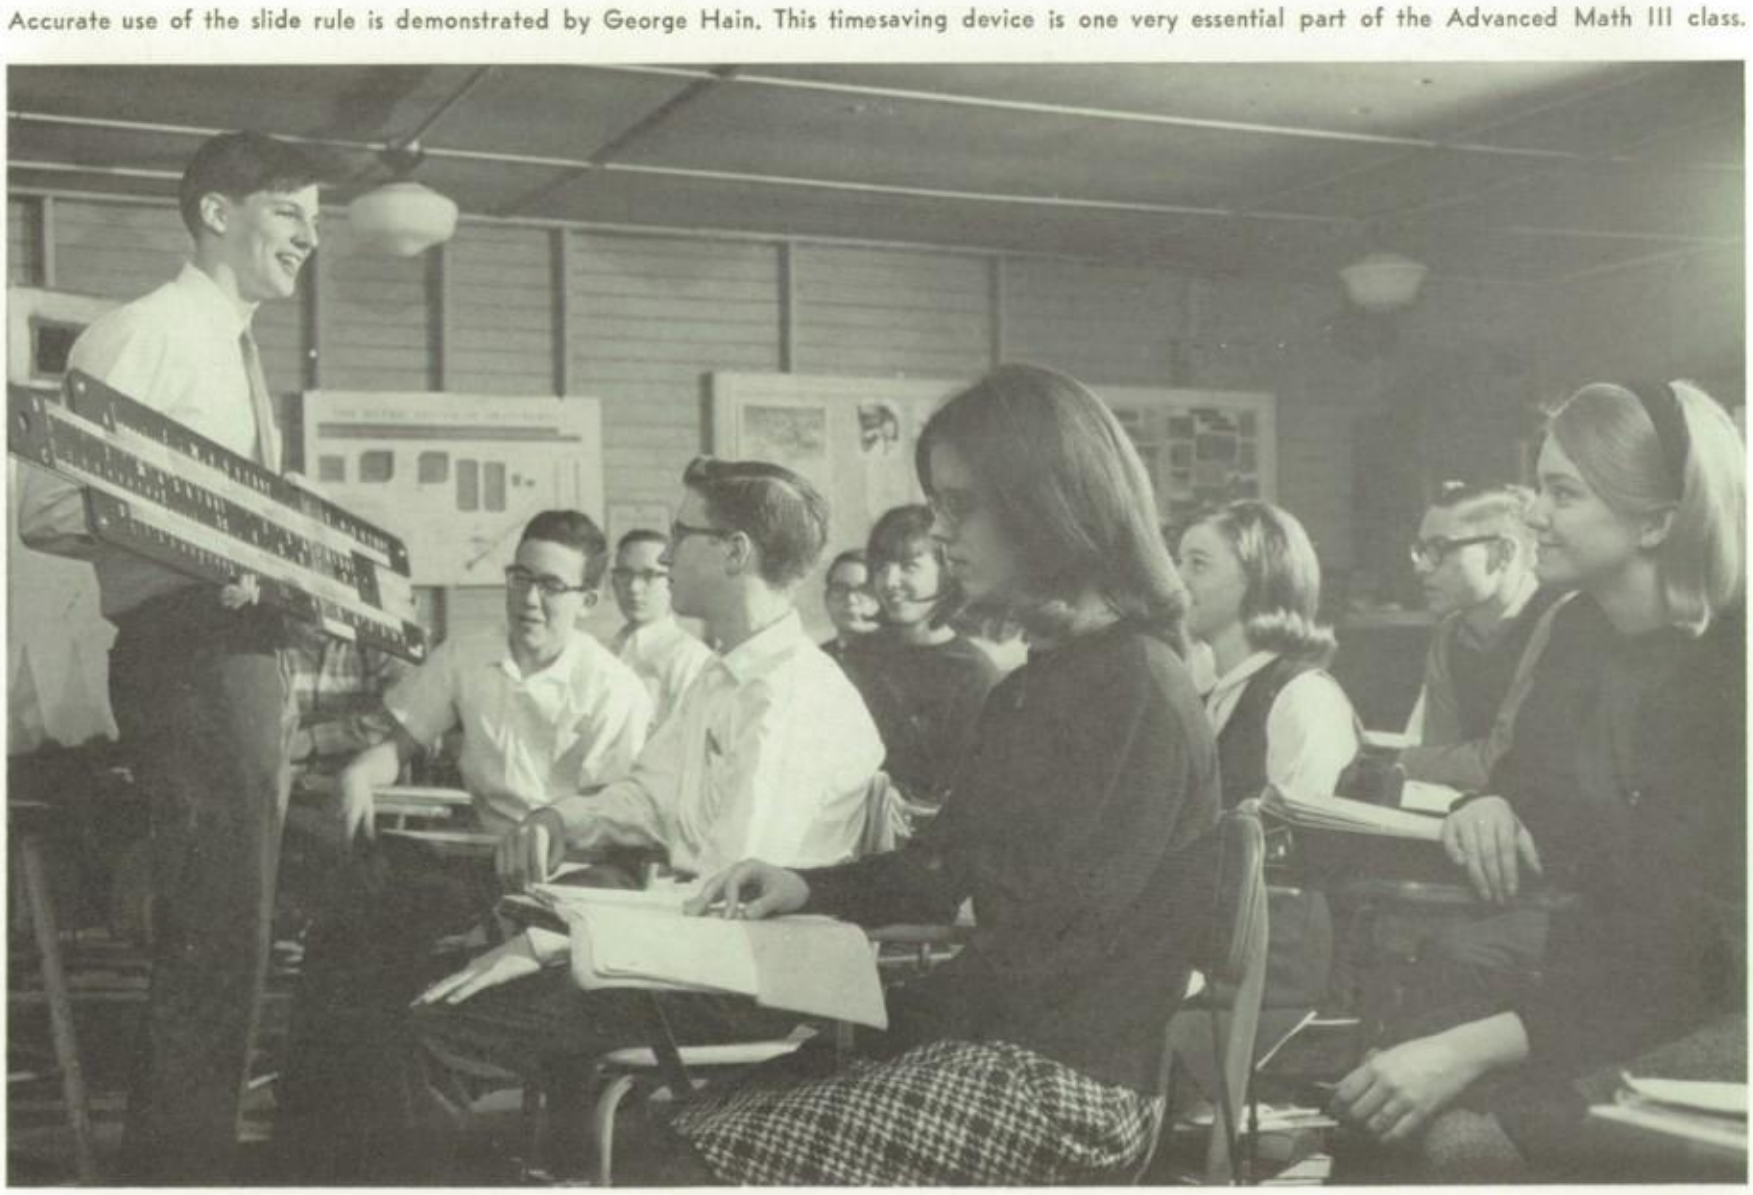


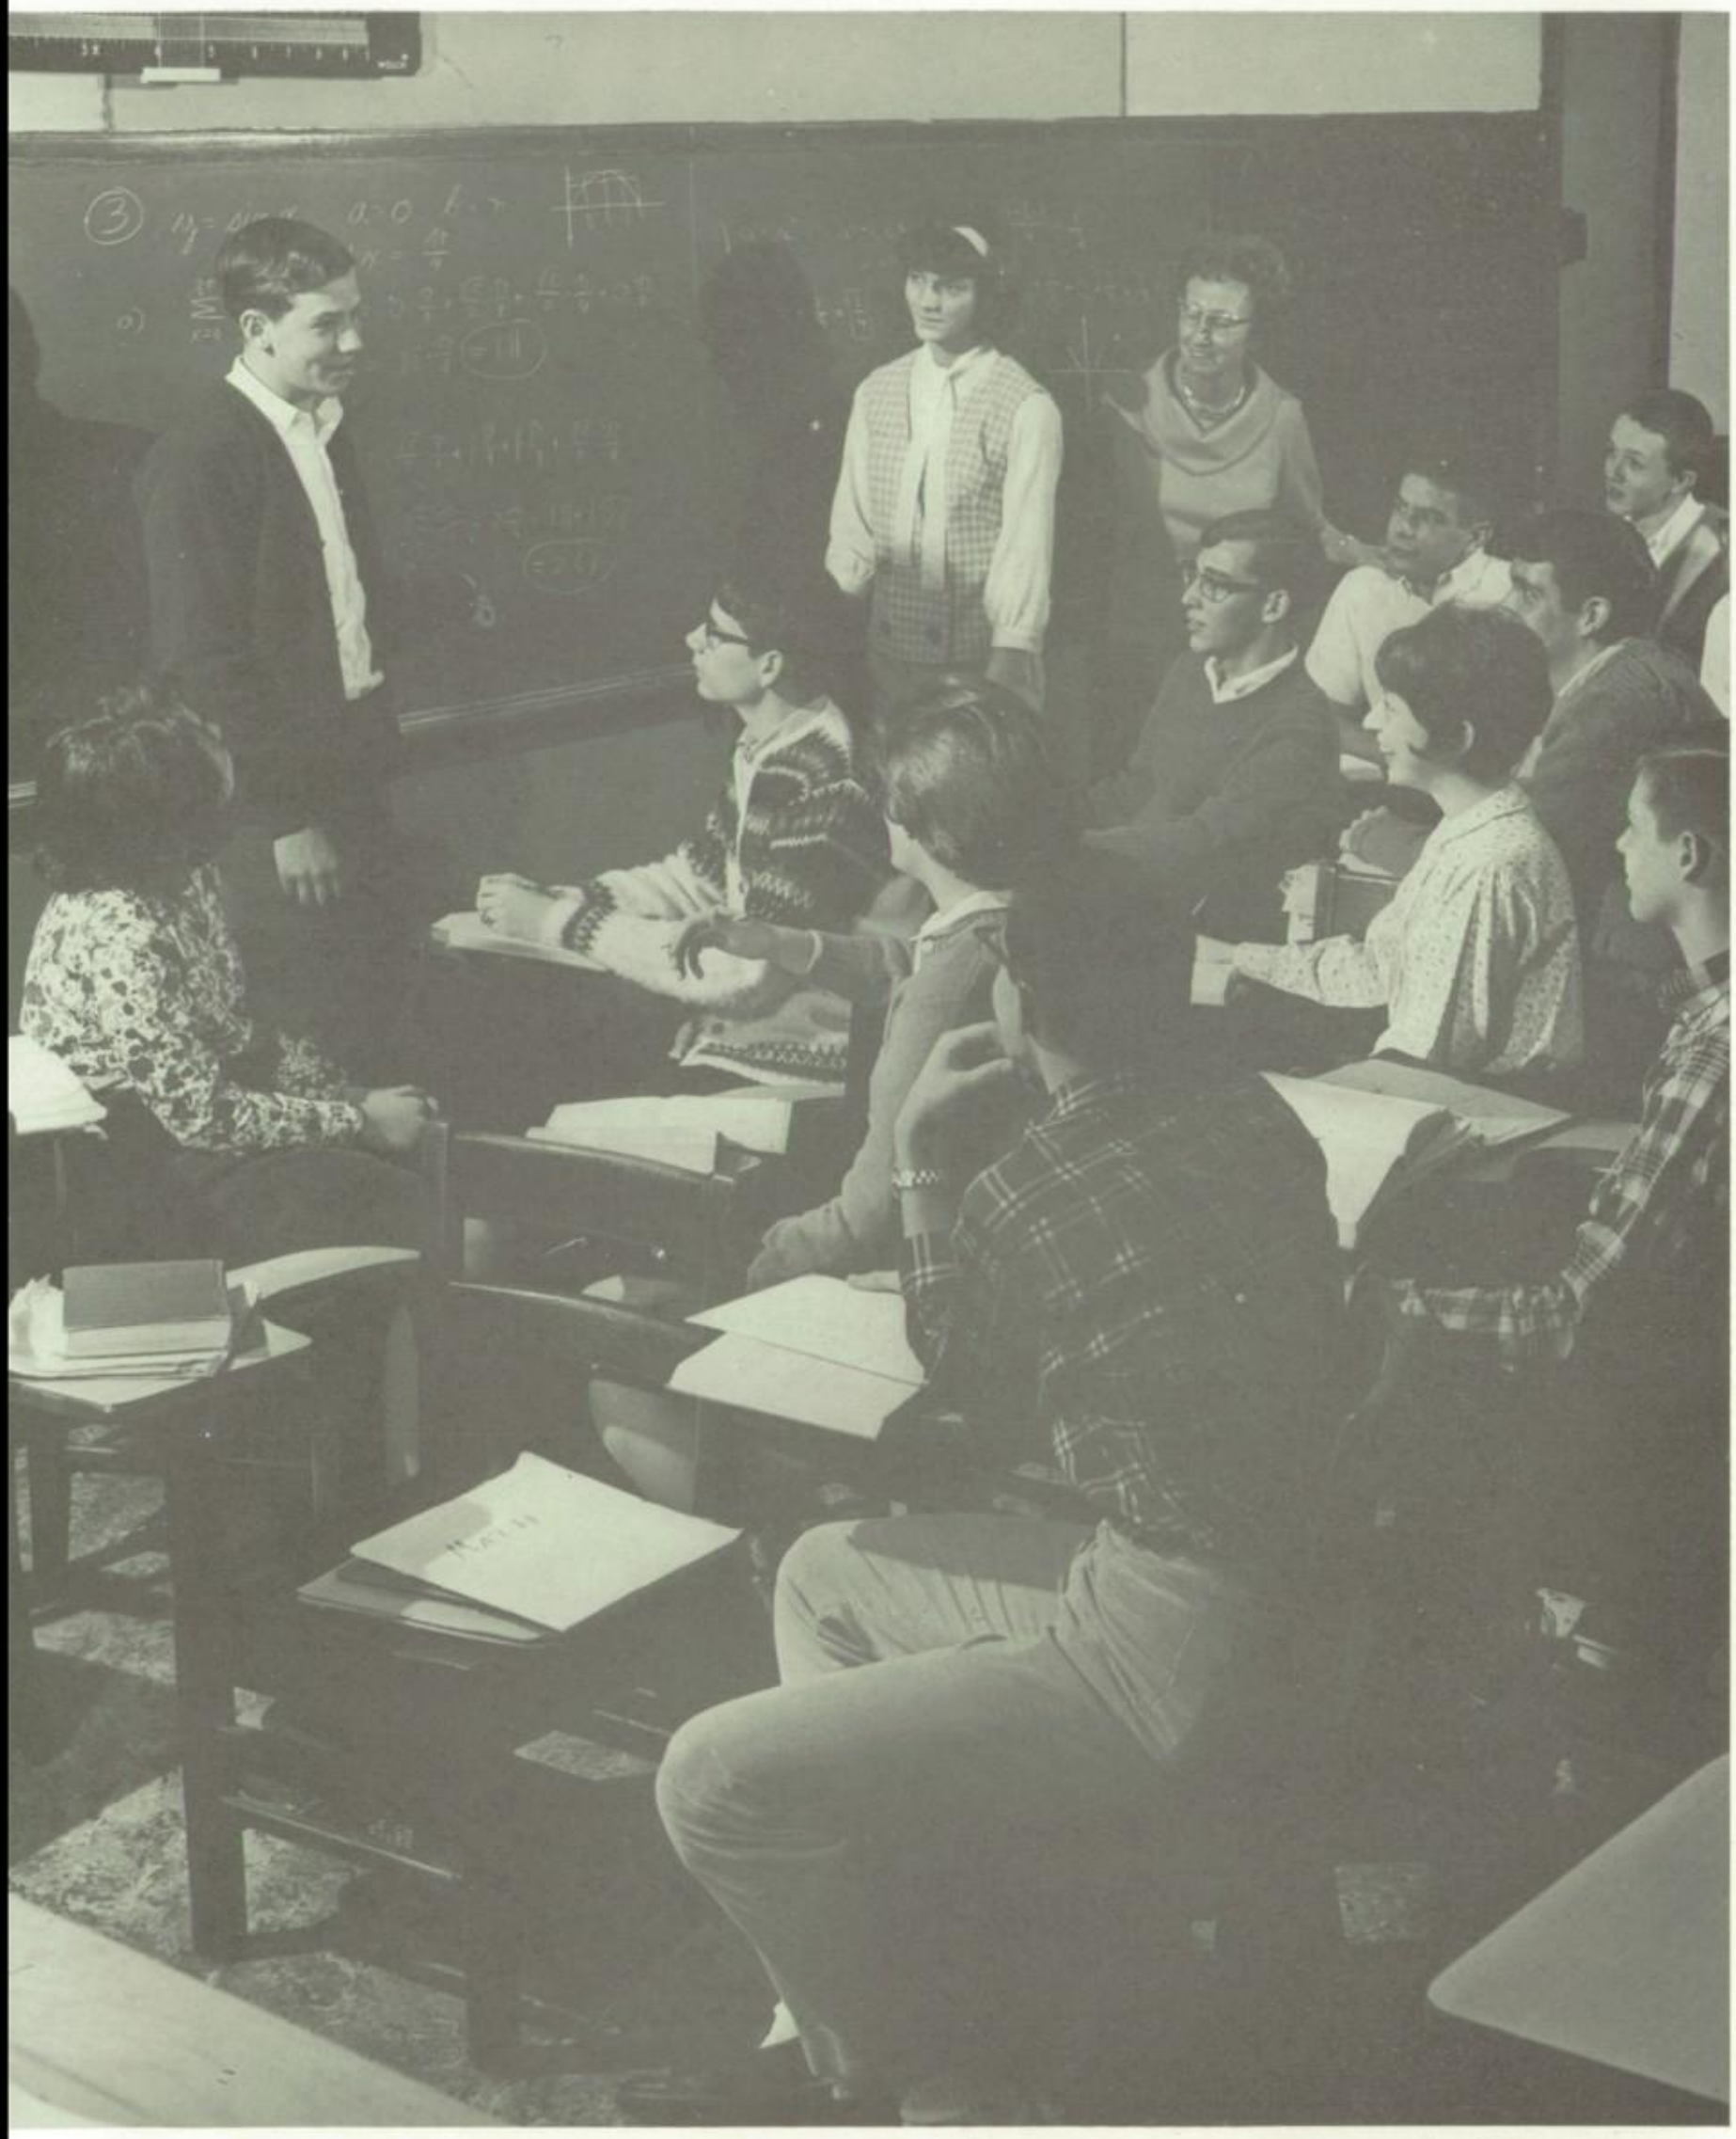
Twelfth grade math student David Evans ponders the angle-side relationships of isosceles triangles.

Math stimulates logic and understanding

Did you know that four plus four equals one? It does in seventh grade modular arithmetic—a new study dealing with number relationships. Another innovation this year was the offering of geometry to certain qualified freshman as part of a city-wide experimental program. Most West High students, however, continued the study of traditional algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. Some took more practical courses such as business or consumer math. All math courses at Western Hills give the students good background for their future jobs in this technical age.

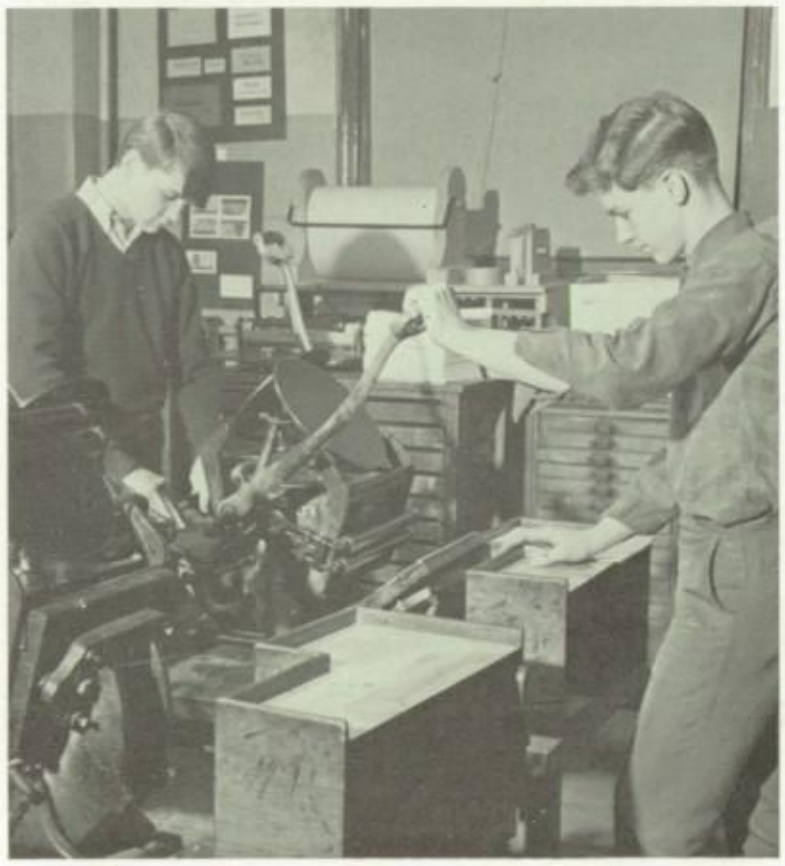
Accurate use of the slide rule is demonstrated by George Hain. This timesaving device is one very essential part of the Advanced Math III class.





"This isn't hard to understand," explains senior Tom Wagner, pointing out the key steps in his intricate computations to his fellow calculus students. Advanced-placement teacher, Mrs. Helen Walter, intently observes her class of young mathematicians eagerly tackling college-level problems.

Expert in metal craft, Mike Collins, Phil Deal, and Wayne Craig pour an aluminum mustang from a sand mold for the Maroon W marquee.



Shops cultivate talent

From the strange grumbling in the central basement to the clapping below the north wing range the endeavors dubbed "shop" at West High. The handiwork produced in this buzzing and busy area cropped up all over school this year: Metal Shop's mustang topped the new marquee, Wood Shop's props graced the stage for "The Sound of Music," and Print Shop's tickets appeared at many school functions. Drafting courses encouraged budding architects to continue more complex study, while others, like General Shop, endeavored to develop consumer knowledge of various equipment.

98, 99 . . . G. Griffis and S. Carlen hope to finish printing tickets for the prom.

Future homemakers, L. Ross, C. Jones, and W. Doss industriously demonstrate cookie cutting to classmates.

Future homemakers develop potential skills

Hear the sizzle of bacon, the whirr of sewing machines, or the hum of a dryer? All these sounds evolve from West High's three Home Economics laboratories, where girls learn the basics of cooking, sewing, budgeting, and interior decorating. In addition to mastering these fundamentals, seniors study marriage and childcare in Home and Family Living classes. As a special project this spring, Ann Holiday representatives demonstrated cooking, sewing, and laundering techniques to seniors in order to prepare young women for the future—whether this be college, marriage, or a career.

"Be careful-don't stick me!" warns L. Nelson as M. Caudill fits her new shell.

Beaming with pride, Pete mats his prize work.

The artist's hands are his most valuable tools.

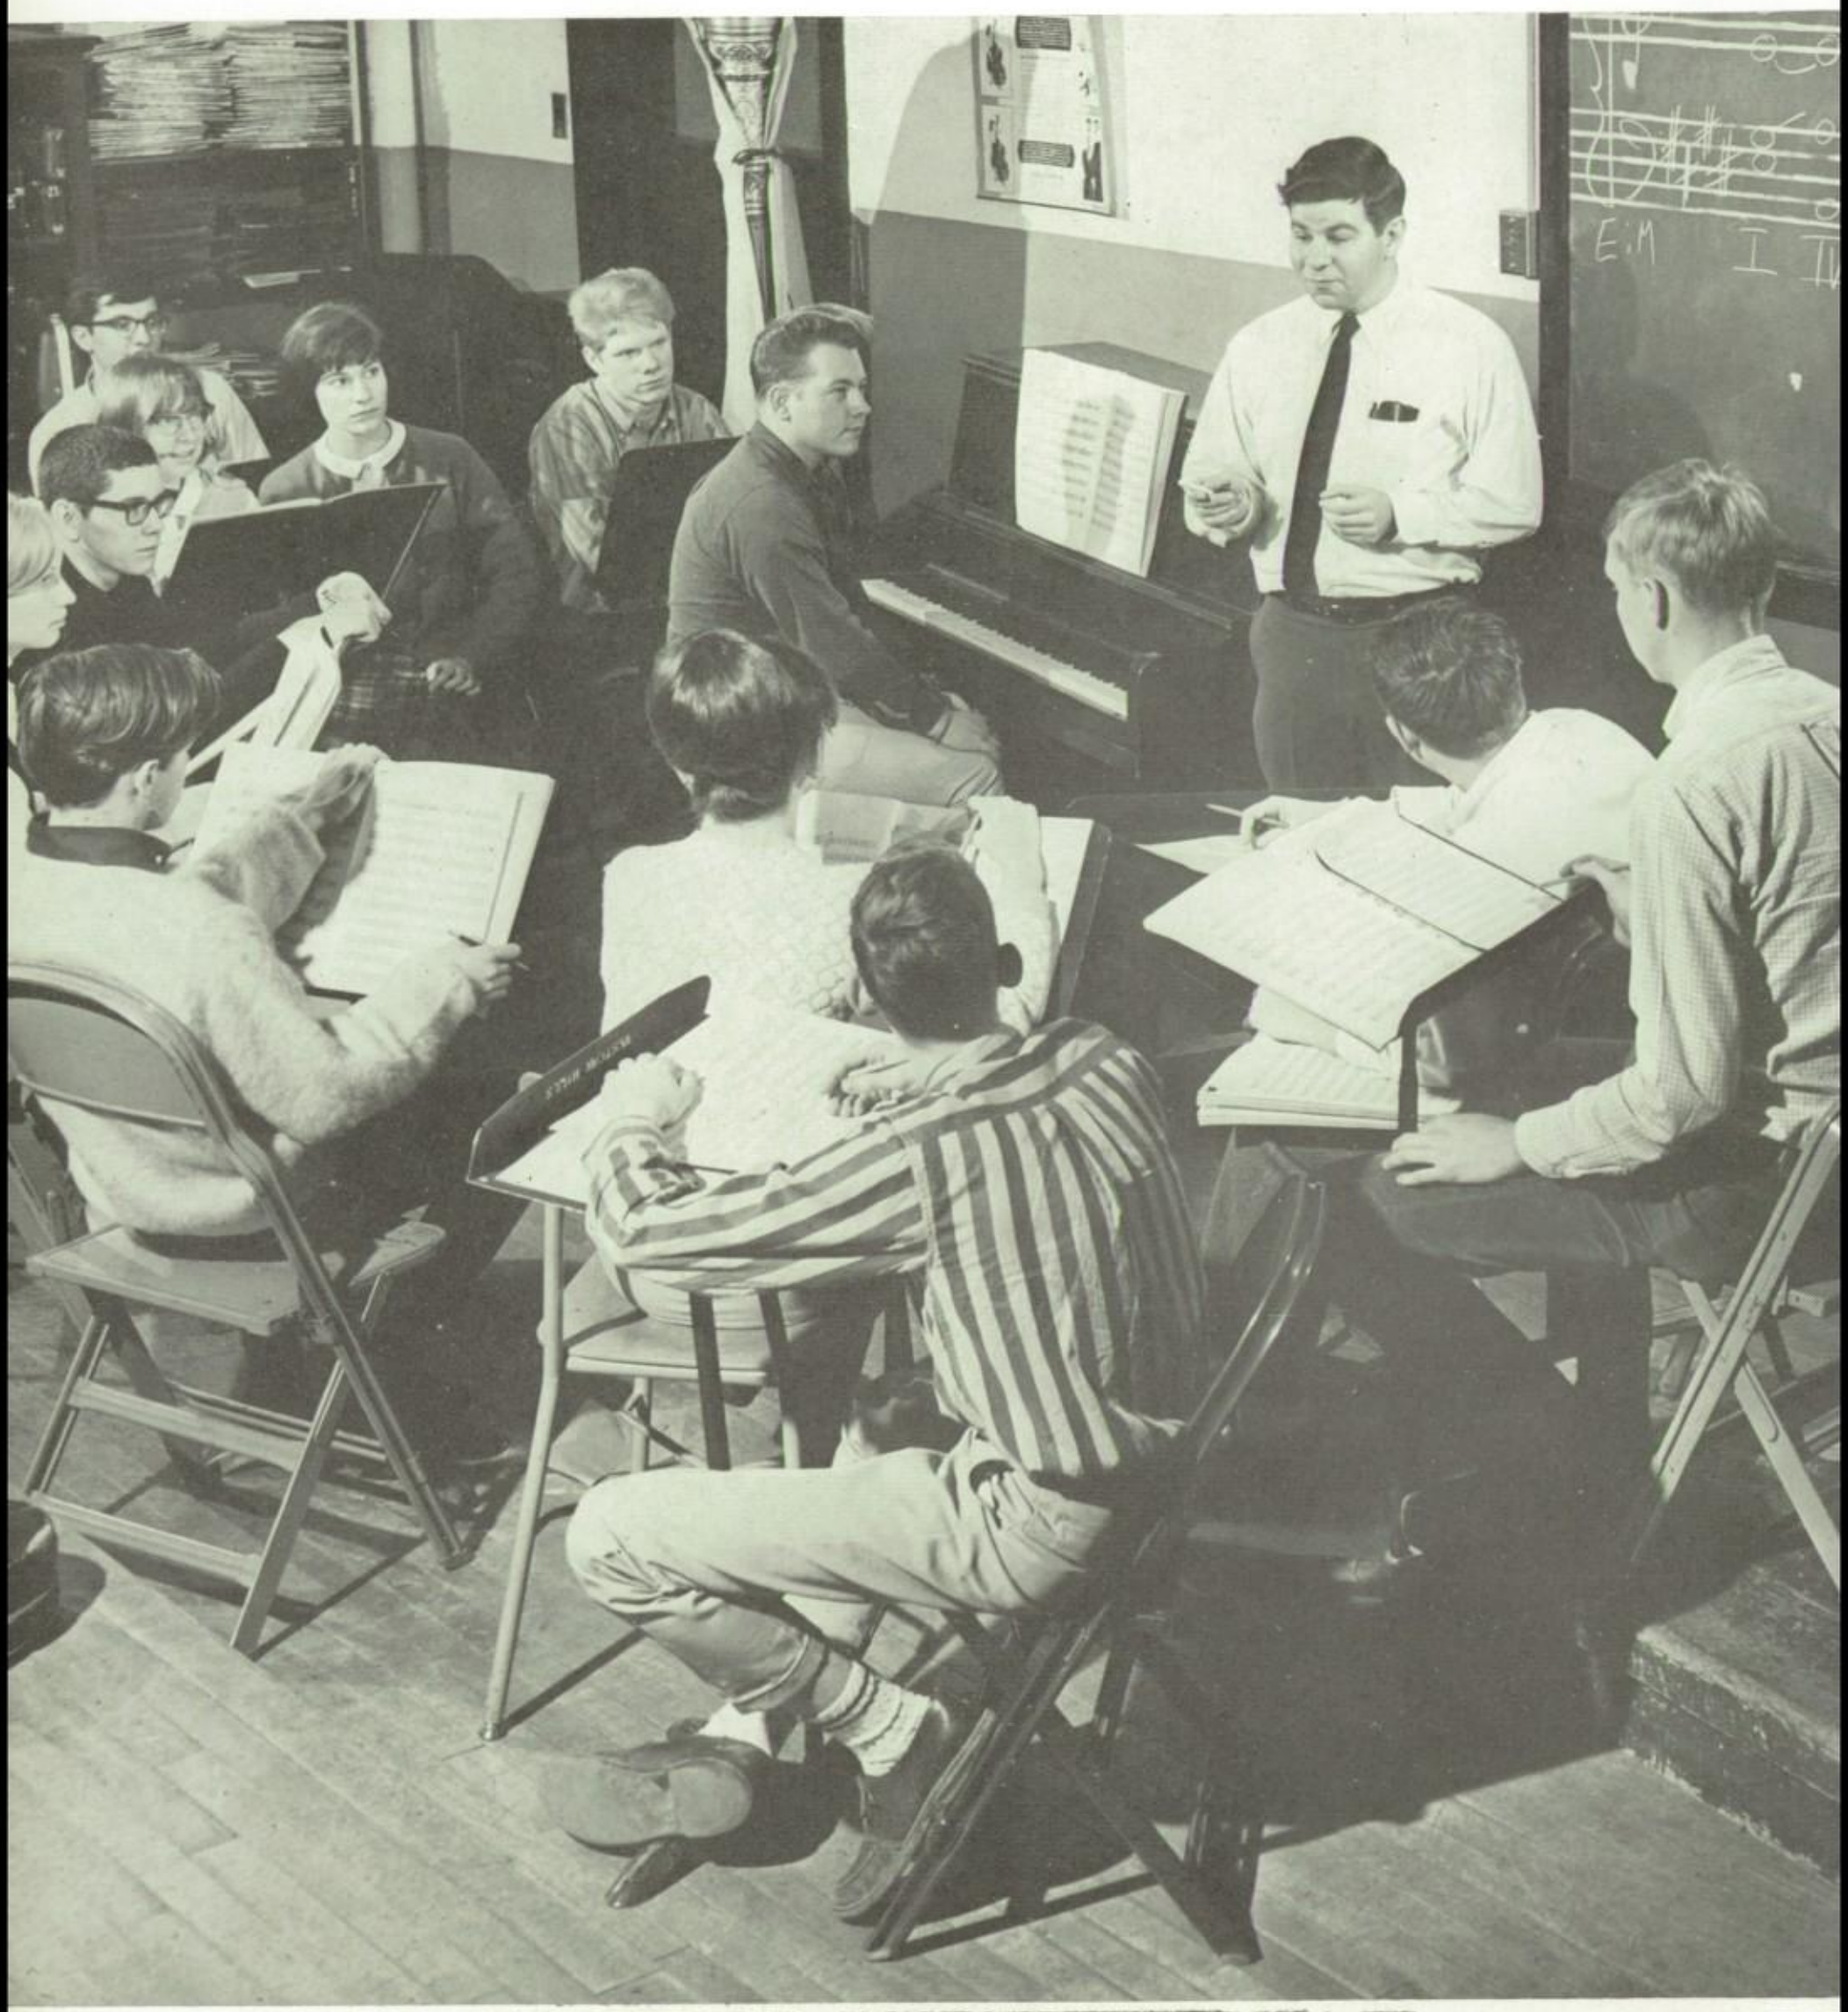
Art students capture honors, awards

The industrious pursuit of a deft hand and a critical eye resulted in creative excellence for Western Hills art students this year. Students approached art in an unusual manner—as a science of self-expression—and studied it as a blend of theoretical principles and practical applications. Many investigated the gamut of art movements from Pop Art to Impressionism. Mrs. Myers' classes visited the Johnson Collection of Art and tried personal interpretations. The efforts of such comprehensive study culminated in honors for Pete Harritos, a Shillito's Scholastic Art Finalist and Stephanie Boeing, a gold key winner in the same contest.

Art student John Dollriehs poses under the preceptive eye of fellow classmates.

The many faces of America are illustrated symbolically as Bernice Reichardt, Carol Crawford, and Dot August pool talent to produce a huge mural.

Accentuating the facial structure of model J. Wurtzelbacher is art sculptor Paul Schmidt.



An extensive review of 17th and 18th century theory constitutes only the first unit of Mr. Liberman's Music Theory course. Fundamentals of music writing, coordination of lyrics and melody, self-expressive composition, and actual performance of the creations make up the final phases of the study.

West Hi's participation in the April All-City Festival allowed choir members to display their talents while blending voices with other schools. Another spring event — the capture of superior ratings in state competition—indicated orchestra members' musical prowess.

Diversity marks the Western Hills musical curriculum

A wide span of musical studies crescendocs as the student grows through West High. A course in band, orchestra, or choir acquaints him with fundamentals which, with practice, blossom into skills. Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs augment these skills, while select Studio Choir develops tone and voice quality. For advanced pupils, the Music Theory class delves into the basic elements of composition and encourages creativity.

The modern Language Lab proves advantageous to the German classes of Mr. Shakleford who stresses the importance of audio-linguistics.

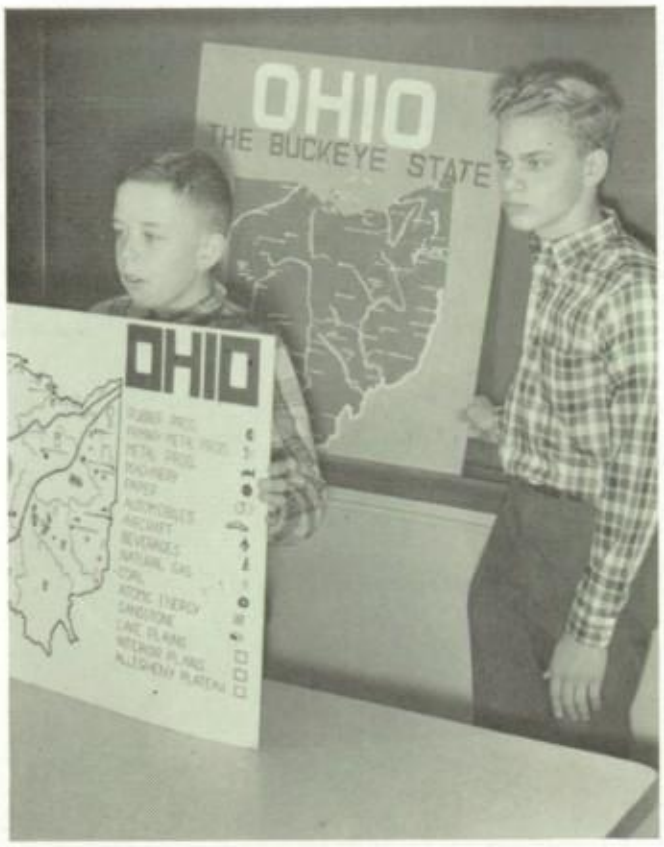
Language courses stress oral proficiency

New course materials adopted this year made possible a fuller use of the audio-lingual method of instruction in beginning modern language courses at Western Hills. Centered around the language lab and supplemented by films and a special text, the new course emphasized conversational skills. More advanced classes combined intensive library study with applied oral drills. Mrs. Spickard guided her fifth-year Latin class in forming a reading seminar.

Utilizing tape recorders and flash cards as helpful study aids are three eager and enthusiastic Spanish students.

A lecture on Roman manuscripts stimulates an animated discussion among Mrs. J. Spickard's Latin V pupils.

Bright prints intrigue advanced pupils Eddie Paul, Lois Faulkner, Cheryl Smith, and Linda Caudill whose lesson in French art livens language study.

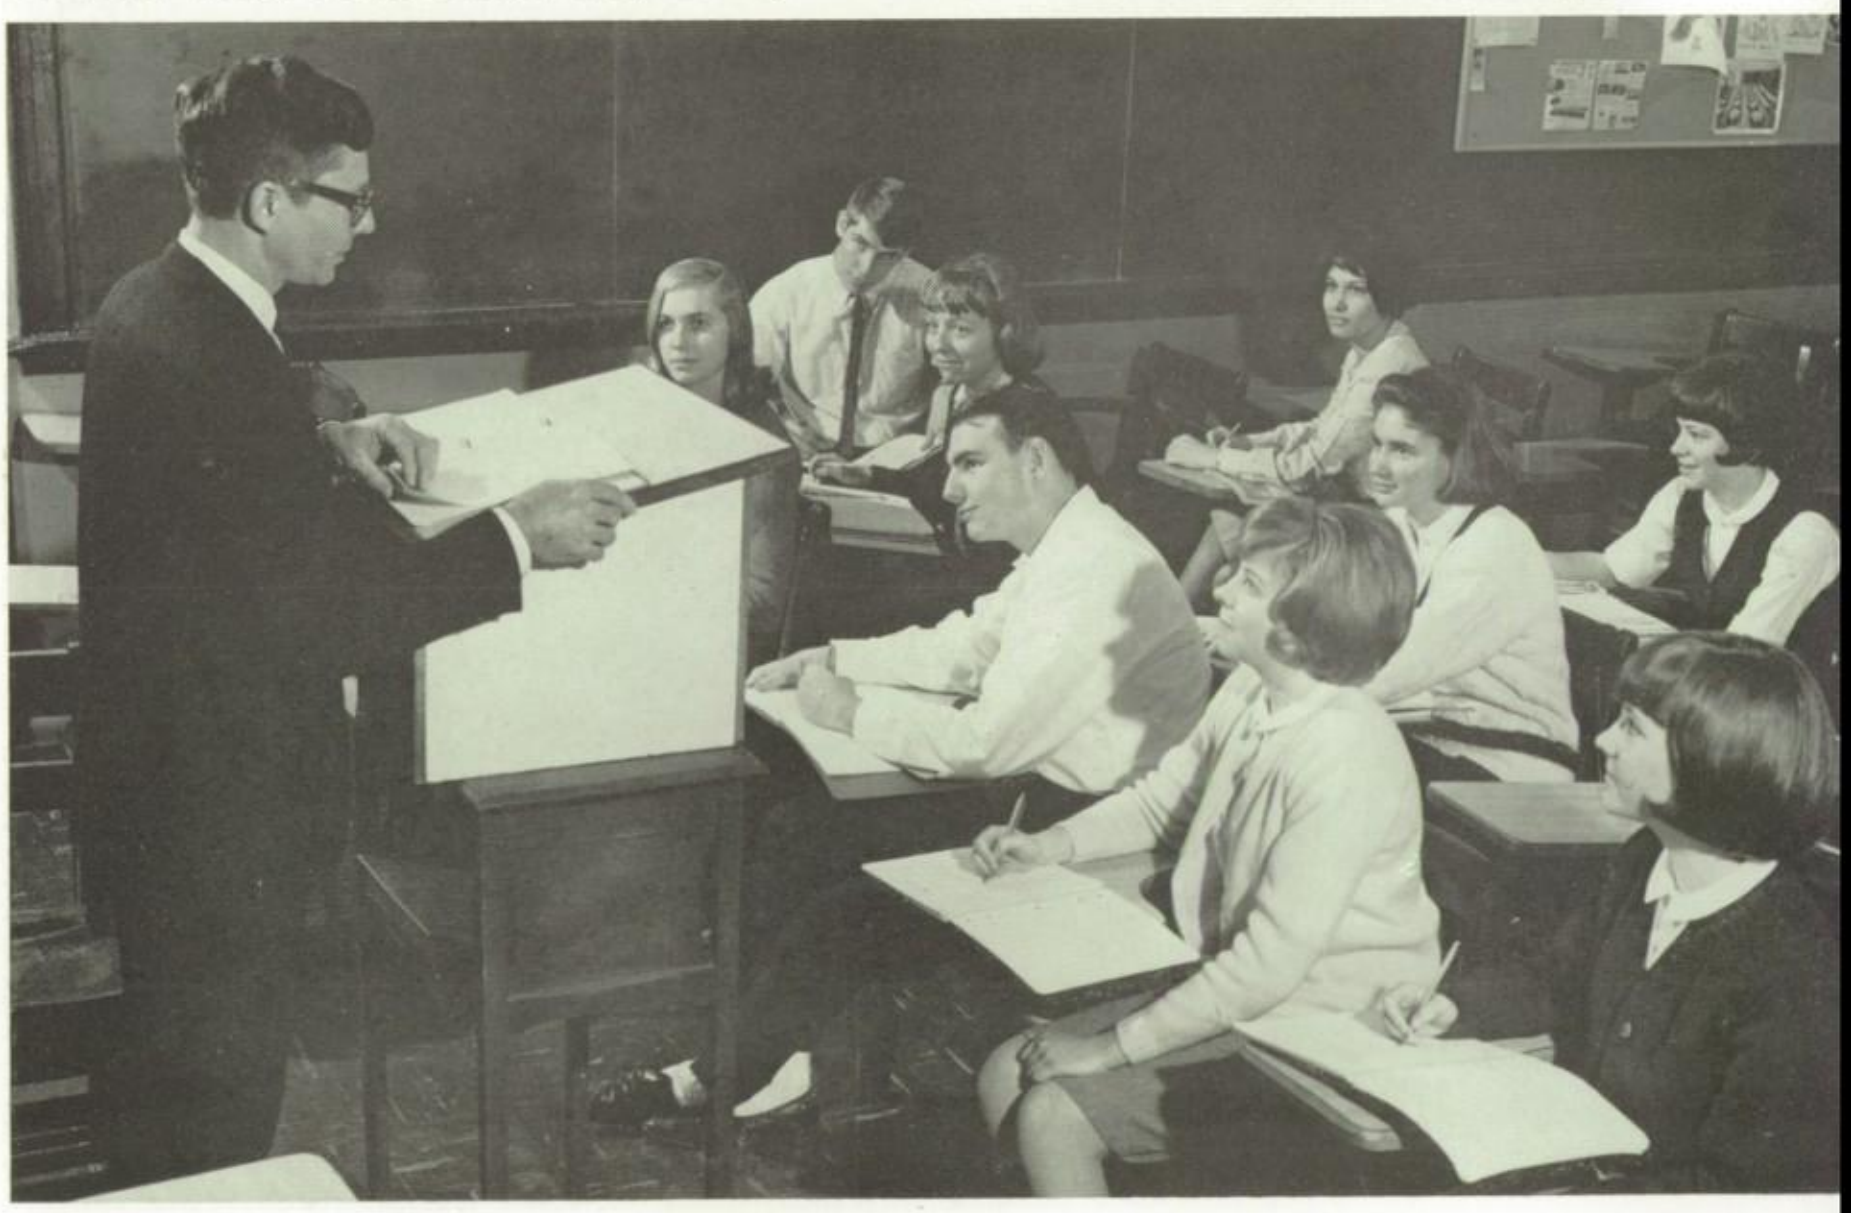


"Our State" is one of many facets of study which Jim McIntosh and Carl Scheidenberger avidly investigate.

Social Studies explore man's civilization

A college-level study of the movement of ages and men whom they produced is West High's newest addition to the history department. This advanced American History course, taught by Mr. Hopping and supplemented by college texts and exhaustive research work, set the precedent for increased activity in history classes. Mr. Pogue's socio-economics classes completed a study of racial issues by discussing problems with an executive from CORE, while other classes participated in an animated discussion with Mr. Herbert Philbrick, author of "I Lead Three Lives."

An innovation this year—advanced American History—encourages extensive research work done in conjunction with Mr. Hopping's lectures.



"Nuclear proliferation is impractical!" declares Baily Dickerson emphatically, in a heated Modern History debate. His fellow debaters look skeptical.

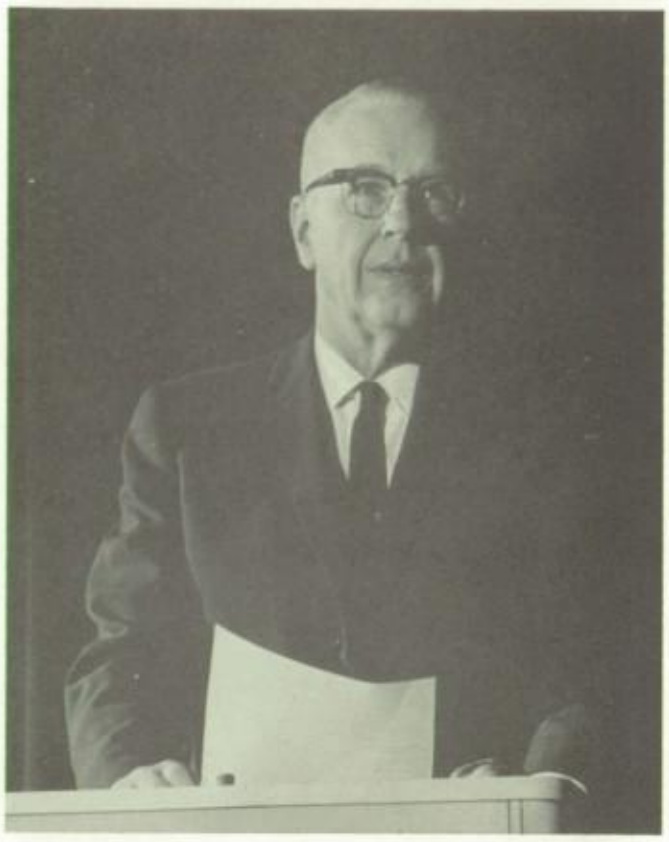
Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic
Principal

Patient devotion describes our principal

Patient and genuinely devoted to a strenuous, challenging job, Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic inspires admiration from the faculty and pupils. His conscientous performance of his duties enables Western Hills to function as a well-ordered institution. In addition to carrying out directions of the Board of Education and reporting on its policies, Mr. Havlovic is constantly alert to what he terms "the unusual." This includes dealing with nondescript problems such as crowded conditions, snow emergencies, or vandalism. His devotion often extends to extra-curricular activities, such as the Dad's Club Dinners, where he willingly serves as chef. In an effort to improve what he considers a fine school in an excellent educational system, he actively participates in several of the organizations for both educators and principals. When spare time accumulates, Mr. Havlovic pursues a variety of hobbies – golf, music, bowling, and bridge.

Conforming to state law, Mr. Havlovic dons goggles to observe a laboratory.



Dignified, dynamic Mr. Havlovic addresses an assembly.

Mr. Havlovic periodically meets to consult with his three assistant principals, Mr. Robert Cheeseman, Mr. Robert Siekmann, and Mr. Paul Nabors.

Three assistant principals are invaluable

Working congenially with Mr. Havlovic in all phases of administration are his three invaluable assistant principals. With firmness and determination, Mr. Robert Siekmann wins the respect of the more than two thousand senior high school students. His duties include discipline, managing the "Mustang Trading Post", making sure bus transportation is provided for students, dispensing class rings, and organizing study halls. The new, efficient, and capable Mr. Robert Cheeseman is faced with the demanding problems of the junior high school. Mr. Paul Nabors regulates the teacher personnel, and provides all essential faculty material — textbooks and visual aids. These three administrators work very diligently to coordinate all facets of high school life at West High.

"They don't all seem to be here," laments Mr. Nabors as he carries out the wearisome task of checking books.

Mr. Fred Schlimn, senior high counselor and test coordinator, confers with Bob Stutzman about his percentage rank on college SAT scores.

Counselors share year-round duties

"A counselor's work is never done." This new version of an old quote applies to counselors kept busy year round. September always heralds many tangled schedules for harried counselors to adjust. During late fall and early winter, they arrange college conferences, give Kuder tests, and provide vocational speakers. In spring they must coordinate college entrance tests. This season is also option time, when the counselors individually advise each student. Completing a strenuous year, counselors hope they have advantageously guided and placed every pupil.

"I should be a scientist!" exclaims Mrs. Adams, secretary, as Mr. William Conger, senior high counselor, compares her interests scored from a Kuder test with her present career.

Mr. Borkosky and Mrs. Memmel, senior high counselors, explain requirements necessary for college-bound senior pupils.

"Oh no, not more schedules!" sighs Miss Hobbs, the new junior high counselor, as Miss Rothert carries in another pile to be programmed.

A birthday surprise for Mrs. Brown means a treat for secretaries Miss Lehman, Miss Bicking, Miss Moeller, and Miss Husemann too!

talents and imagination

Using varied ingenious methods, teachers motivate their students in the quest for knowledge, skill, or discipline of character. Each day they present a prepared class lesson following a carefully planned curriculum for their course, and thus, provide students with expert instruction. Newly credited projects satisfy inquisitive minds and stimulate students to develop their own ideas. Faculty members evince outstanding qualities of dedication and patience. Often this requires remaining after school to assist a student requesting individual attention. The teachers' goal at Western Hills is the preparation of their pupils for the demanding challenge of the world.

Free bells are not always relaxing

Any faculty member will assert that tasks of a teacher do not finish when the class period ends. Free bells — a misnomer — must be spent grading tests and compositions, keeping clerical records, and tutoring individual pupils. Nor does the 3:10 bell mark the end of a teacher's day. Coaches train varsity, reserve, and junior high athletic teams, while teachers of academic subjects often volunteer to instruct GAA girls in their favorite sports. Sponsoring the school's various organizations and clubs also requires many additional hours. Yet West High's dedicated faculty members willingly assume this multitude of responsibilities along with preparing class lessons for the following day.

Staggering home under a towering load of books, seventh-grader Al Bickel anticipates a challenging year of studying and new activities.

Diligent studying

"Teacher, I just can't get my locker open! Will you help me?" Almost every one of the 370 seventh graders finds himself in this embarrassing situation during the first few weeks of school. However, the rookie doesn't spend much time at his locker. He buzzes about the third floor halls — making friends, discussing last night's "Shindig" show, and humming the top forty tunes. Scholastically, he is equally as ambitious. The seventh grade boy decides to furnish the entire household with handmade articles from industrial arts class, while the future homemaker achieves many culinary triumphs in the home economics kitchen. The future politician is elected to Junior Student Council, and a potential Arnold Palmer or Jerry Lucas receives his first strenuous training in Western Hills' versatile sports program. The industrious seventh grader is surely a busy person!

With the help of Rookie Aids like Donna Belmonte, Donna Barnes and Ken Rawlings, seventh graders solve academic puzzles.

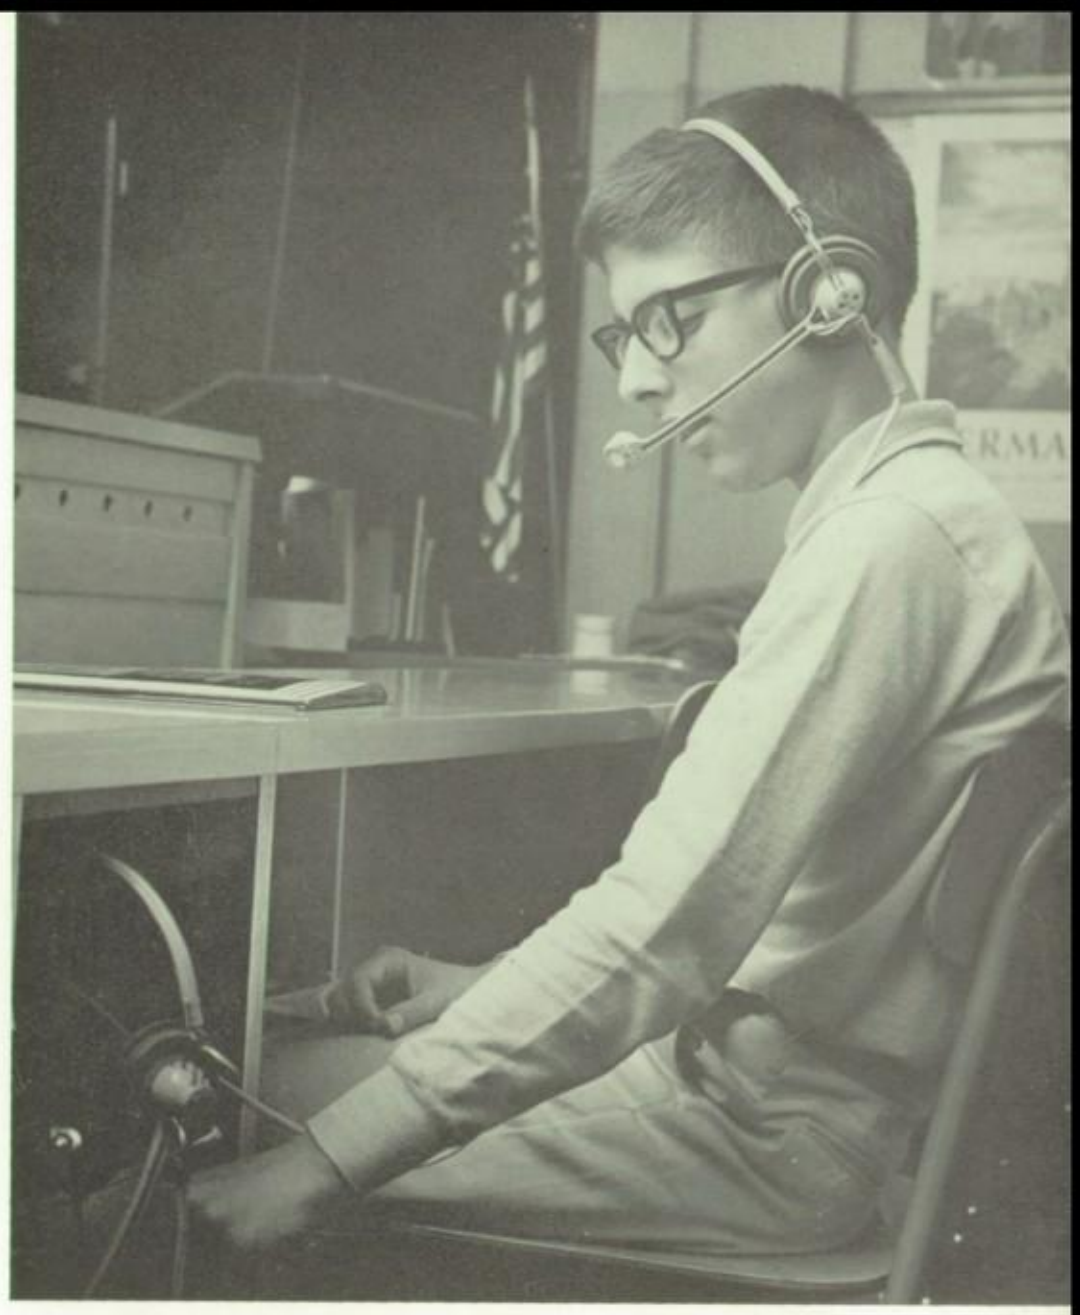
the ambitious rookies

Decisions, decisions! A West High rookie's life is packed with decisions! What courses should he take? Latin is interesting, but taking a modern language would enable him to use the language lab. Should he try art or music to discover some hidden creative talent? And what about extra-curricular activities? Should he use his athletic ability and join an intramural team, or would pursuing a scholarly activity such as math club be more worthwhile? Just how much time should he devote to his studies? Every day, questions such as "what shall I choose for lunch?" and "when shall I go to my locker?" besiege the rookie. However, after a strenuous and challenging year at West High, he has learned to take these problems in his stride.



Seventh-grader Dave Bolsen discovers that one of the many attractions of junior high is translating in the language lab.

Seventh Grade

A sunny day and a refreshing breeze . . . students with spring fever discover that the side steps are a haven for pursuing academic interests.

School work is

"Hey, Tom! Do you have science third bell? . . . and English fifth? With some studying, they should be a breeze!" Confident shouts of eighth graders ring throughout the third floor halls as another school year at Western Hills High School begins. The confusion and uneasiness of their rookie year has ended, and while they still show obvious deference to the freshman, resourceful eighth grade students make their capabilities evident in greater scholastic attainment. Social studies, math, science, and English are typical components of their crowded schedules. Working toward acceptance into Junior Honor Society, they spend lunch hours cramming for tests and study halls composing those first, lengthy research papers. Budding scholars come to the fore in the eighth grade.

What is security? Any eighth grader will define it for you. Security is the comfortable rank of the junior high student who has relinquished the status of a rookie but does not yet face the problems of a freshman. Security is knowing which end of the hall contains the odd-numbered rooms and which contains the even-numbered ones. It is also having scads of friends who enjoy your favorite activities—cheering at football games, piling food onto trays in the lunchroom, and doing just a little bit of homework. Security is realizing that there is a whole year in which to develop the responsible personality of a freshman. Security is being an eighth grader at Western Hills High.

"Go West Hi! Beat Elder!" yells Jeff Holtegel beaming with school spirit as he proudly displays "Go Mustangs" buttons.

As February approaches, Greg Fisher, Jim Markesano, Cindy Byrd, and Dale Heilmann plan and anticipate the Junior High Twilight Twirl.

Looking for the leader of some junior high activity? He's sure to be found among the 476 freshmen! If he's one of the Junior Student Council officers who planned the Twilight Twirl and "Battle of the Bands," he's a freshman. If he's one of the Rookie Aids who acquainted seventh graders with West High and served as a tutor, he's a member of the ninth grade class. If he captained the junior high football, basketball, baseball, or track teams, he's a freshman. If he's part of the staff that wrote and edited the junior high page of the "Breeze," he's a freshman. If his girl friend inspired junior high athletic teams to "Go! Fight! Win!" as a cheerleader, he's a freshman. Junior high athletics, school spirit, and academics thrive under freshman leadership.

"We've got the Mustangs on our team . . . they're gr-r-reat!" Spirit is eagerly aroused at games by junior high cheerleaders D. Hall, N. Barnes, S. Sunquist, N. Selby, H. Winther, P. Wilfong, P. Young, J. Corcoran, N. Bartley, and K. Deegan.

Sophomores

With ten cents, strength and lots of luck Richard Wira might get the candy bar he has been waiting for after a long, strenuous school day.

A complete change of scene is in store for West High's sophomores who must make the transition from junior to senior high. To those students who attended Western Hills in their junior high years, attaining senior high status denotes the end of third floor classrooms and study halls in the cafeteria. Sophomores formerly attending other junior highs switch from six to nine bells in a school day that is twenty minutes longer. For all tenth graders, senior high school presents the opportunity for participation in dramatics, choir, and journalism. Pep, energy, and lots of school spirit may secure a position on majorette or cheerleading squads for a sophomore girl, and for the first time a boy may assume the responsibilities of working in the student store. The sophomore year at Western Hills is one of change and challenge.

Spirited 1966 reserve cheerleaders are S. Moser, D. Combs, J. Mette, P. Cunningham, C. Clements, D. Clements, S. Correll, and P. Atwood.

An absence of sponsors and class officers did not daunt West High's class of '68. Early in the year a committee composed of sophomore student council representatives was organized by chairman Dave Altemeier. After choosing Miss Davis and Mr. Franks as advisors, the committee planned activities with zeal and enthusiasm. To draw the members of the class closer together, they challenged the faculty to a basketball game and held a spring Round-Up at Maple Ridge Lodge. The profits of a year-end car wash boosted both the class treasury and the spirits of the sophomores, who scrupulously scrubbed and polished automobiles. The election of four capable class officers in May found a united class eagerly anticipating the junior year at West High.

Do Gary Withers, Beth Hillsley, Linda Jacobs, and Debbie More have the flu, or are they actually allergic to that big English test next bell?

"Study rooms" relieve a once over-crowded auditorium. Students use the time to prepare homework and study for tests in their next class.

Roaming the halls at lunchtime is taboo according to new school rules. Rick Jones monitors a blockade to keep chatter from disturbing class.

Energetic juniors

Initiative and dependability—these are the passwords for seven hundred lively eleventh graders at Western Hills High School. Having achieved a measure of status in becoming juniors, they face challenges with spirit and energy. Instead of merely complying with rules, they now help enforce them by acting as office aides and hall monitors. Class members also plunge into traditional projects with zest. Splattered with soapsuds, they sponsor a wet but profitable car wash. Officers elected the previous spring plan a roster of gala activities including the fall Round-Up and the Junior-Senior Prom. For twenty proud junior girls, a garland of daisies carried on Class Day symbolizes academic achievement. When exams are finally over, juniors proudly display class rings and raise a new and jubilant cry: "We've made it! We're seniors!"

class rings arrive

"Say, did you get that tough algebra problem? . . . What did you think of those vocabulary words?" Such idle chatter buzzes from person to person as weary juniors straggle out of the auditorium after a morning of laborious college entrance examinations. In the fall and spring, the PSAT, NMSQT, and other such tests motivate juniors to a new seriousness of purpose. Looking toward their senior year and beyond, they begin to persue college catalogues and investigate possible career choices.

Lacquered or gold, cut stone or round, the '67 class rings bring a thrill to Lin Davis and her friend Belinda Chaldekas.

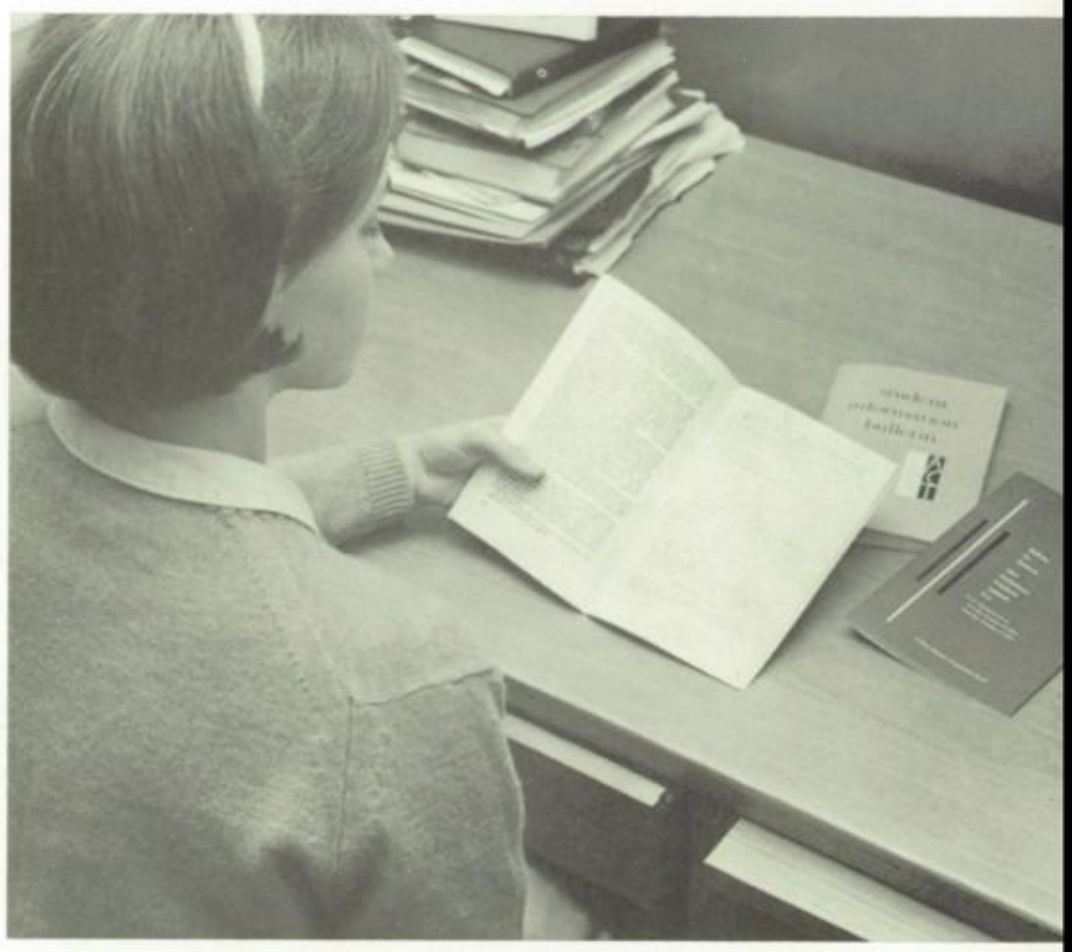
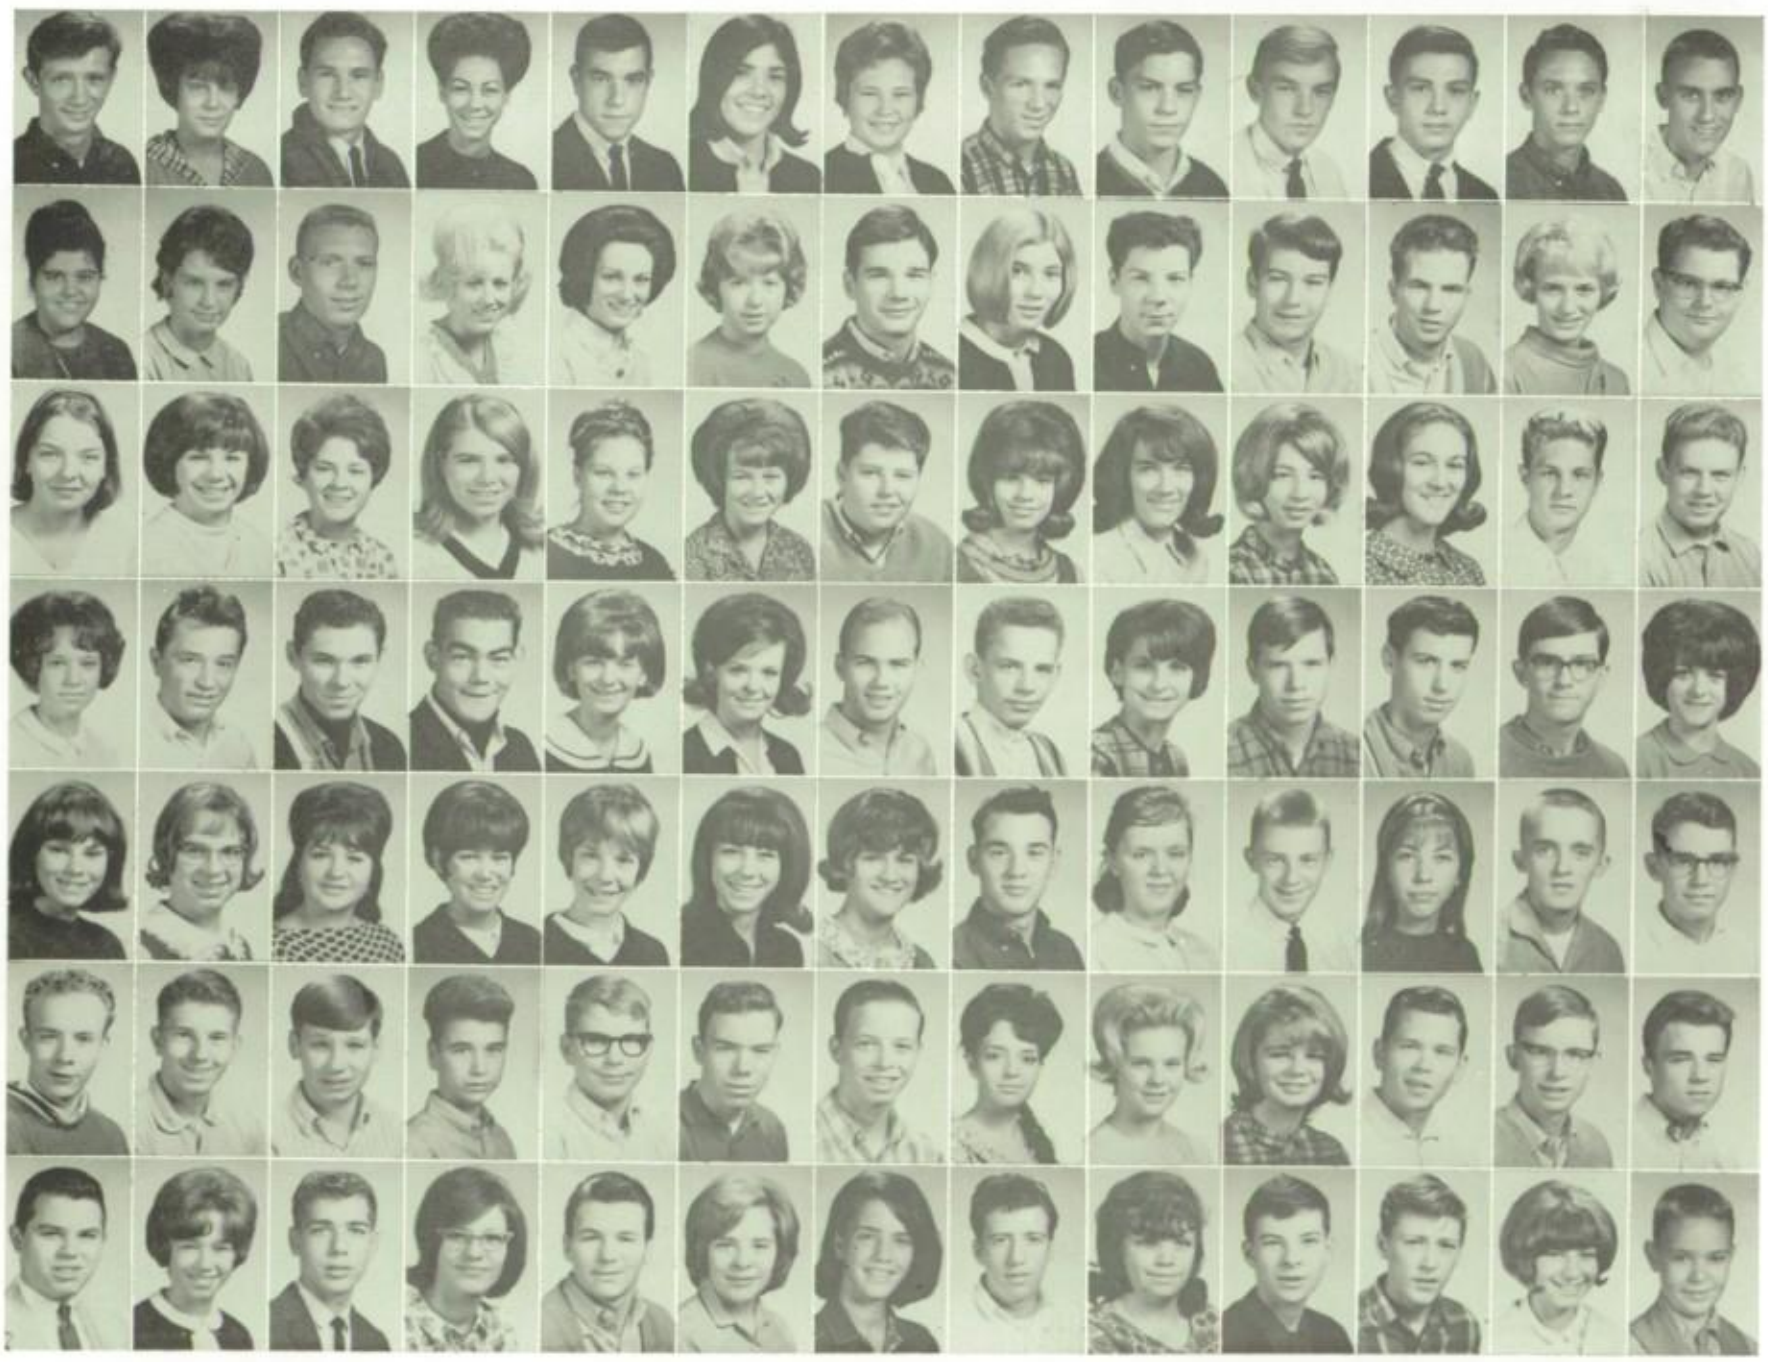
juniors plan future

The eleventh grade is a time for determining the future. What does a junior at Western Hills do about it? Plenty. He either selects advanced courses in math, English, and history to prepare for college work or he takes business classes to train for a vocation. His participation in FTA, FBLA, and Junior Achievement aid him in choosing a career. Attending conferences and visiting numerous universities before making that all-important choice are part of the eleventh grader's hectic world. The decisions which loom large and important for the junior have a profound effect upon his future.



Junior Kay Chapman works to meet the requirements of college entrance exams.



Excited smiles and hungry stomachs that make a picnic a picnic started the class of '66 going. Taking the hint from peppy Mrs. Spickard and Mr. Otten, and from junior year experience, seniors filled their coffers at a car wash in September and then splurged on an October Round-up and a float for Thanksgiving. The Elder game? Well, the float was a highlight to remember! When seniors caught the Christmas spirit, Student Council decked the hall — with crepe paper and balloons — and trimmed the traditional Christmas tree. A gala Mardi Gras in February dispelled post-exam slump, and in the spring "The Sound of Music" resounded through West Hi, scoring another musical success. Graduation ushered in a flurry of year-end parties and dances, furnishing the senior class with a myriad of cherished memories.

"Here's the winning strategy, boys!" In the tense moment before the game, Coach Terry instills the winning spirit into his football players.

In autumn, excitement electrifies the air . . . Building a float for the Thanksgiving Elder rivalry sparks school spirit and comradeship . . . The blazing Pow-Wow bonfire illumines the November sky, providing a resplendent preview of colorful Homecoming festivities.

At the Elder game, last of the season, a mum fills Terry Eden with excitement and regret.

Will rolls of chicken wire and crepe paper be transformed into a float?

Enthusiasm at the Thanksgiving rivalry between the Mustangs and Panthers seems to be contagious as the band members and crowd hope for victory!

Cheerleaders— majorettes exude spirit

A touchdown! From the sidelines the cheerleaders shout "make that point" and the majorettes get set to twirl to the fight song. The band members raise their instruments before breaking whole-heartedly into the rousing battle song. The fans join in with a roar of excitement . . . this just might be a victory! But win or lose, twelve energetic cheerleaders, a drum major and six flashy majorettes always back the Mustangs. Their bright smiles and vivacious personalities boost school spirit on Fridays from the first moments of the auditorium pep rallies to the last seconds of every game.

Shakers and megaphones ready, peppy Marilyn Wolfer, Phyl Johnston, Barb Griswold, and Betty Kamp anticipate a thrilling basketball game.

Here comes the band! Blaring trombones and bellowing tubas herald the band's entrance

Who says that football is strictly a man's game? Varsity cheerleaders not only cheer tirelessly for the Mustangs but occas'onally join in the game! Cheerleaders are Merial Spaulding, Nancy Wiethe, Nancy Garretson, Bav Disken, Diana Chaney, Barb Seible, Denise Metzger and Jill Ambrosius.

"Energy Unlimited" best describes the six vivacious majorettes whose dazzling half-time performances with the marching band spur the Mustangs to victory: Belinda Chaldekas, Kathy Moffo, Sandy Leicht, Kathy Hoefer, Terri Day. Drum Major Jim Schoenberger, and Head Majorette Terry Eden.

Grid team thwarts PHSL leaders

Under a new head coach, Gene Terry, Western Hills football squad opened the 1965 grid season with resounding 36-6 victory over the Aiken Falcons. During the next four weeks, the Mustangs could only salvage an 8-6 victory from Courter Tech. Led by star fullback Mike Schott's three touchdowns, highlighting a 22-point second half, the Mustangs romped over Hughes 30-14. The squad continued to play a tight defensive game by posting back-to-back victories over the neighboring arch-rival Oak Hills Highlanders and the Woodward Bulldogs, who were fighting for the PHSL title. Before a sellout crowd of 15,000 in the annual Thanksgiving Day battle with Elder, the high-spirited Mustangs performed admirably but fell, 20-0, when their defense collapsed in the second half. Coach Terry's chargers, although falling from last year's co-championship, finished with an impressive 3-win, 4-lost, 2-tie record, which notched a fourth place standing in the PHSL. The squad's outstanding feature was the backfield, which was led by senior captains Mike Schott and Jack Reynolds, both members of the all-city and PHSL all-star teams.

Reserves gain experience and skill

The reserve football team played with the enthusiasm and desire to win, but could muster only a seventh place finish in the PHSL with a disappointing, one-win, four-lost, and one-tie record. The team's backbone was composed of twenty-two sophomores made up of players from last year's freshmen teams. The new head coach, Mr. Stacey, drilled the boys in the basic fundamentals of football. The Mustangs opened the season by tying Walnut 6-6. Despite a severe mid-season slump which tallied four losses, the team broke into the win column in the final game of the season, with a tense 14-12 victory over the Courter Tech Knights. The Colts received commendable performance from various outstanding gridders. However, several of the boys were promoted to the varsity team in mid-season, which decreased the team's effectiveness, and accounted for the squad's poor finish.

Harriers sprint ahead to victory

With the aid of two returning lettermen, Coach Bathiany attempted to rebuild West High's harriers. Continuous practices throughout the fall kept the eighteen members in excellent physical condition and built up their endurance. The season started off with a 26-26 tie with Colerain, and two triangular meets followed in which the Greyhounds finished third. David Martin and Paul Staubitz led the team to finishing eighth in the three PHSL meets, and eighteenth in the district. Though hampered by the loss of many star members, the team exemplified great spirit and tenacity of purpose. Next year's team looks promising with a solid corps of six returning lettermen.

West High cagers post 5-15 record

Western Hills' varsity basketball squad posted a slightly improved 5-win, 15-lost record, and finished sixth place in the league with 3 wins in fourteen PHSL games. Opening against the neighboring Highlanders of Oak Hills, the Mustangs scored a 71-67 victory. The next six games produced a lone victory over Walnut 78-67, as the Mustangs dropped contests to Aiken, Elder, Taylor, Withrow, and Woodward. A shining 63-34 win over Courter Tech was followed by four discouraging losses, one of which was lost in the last minute to the powerful Withrow Tigers. Coach Rain's chargers rebounded to cap a second victory over Walnut, as they trounced the Eagles by twenty-two points. In the district meet, the cagers drew Amelia and surprised them with a resounding and decisive 67-49 victory. Moving in the quarter-finals, the squad for the third time in the season met co-champion Withrow, and was again defeated by the Tigers, 51-40, at the U.C. Fieldhouse. Kerry Kalmbach, a senior and newcomer at West High, was the squad's top rebounder and highest scorer with a 17 point game average. He was picked for the PHSL all-star second team. Mike Schott, Rod Thomas, and Ken Hartzler showed outstanding talent, with Schott and Hartzler receiving honorable mention for the PHSL all-star team.

Reserves finish in a fifth place tie

Posting six wins in fourteen league games, the reserve basketball squad finished in a tie for fifth place. Lack of reserve strength hampered Coach Ganzmiller. Considering this factor, the team did an outstanding job and showed a tremendous desire and hustle. The season opened with successive losses to Oak Hills, Elder and Withrow. A 33-20 trouncing of the Taylor Yellow-Jackets was followed by a win over Walnut. From the next seven contests only two victories were earned by the reserves. An upsurge of power produced victories over Walnut and Woodward. The year ended on a disappointing note with one win from four games.

Junior High stresses sportsmanship

Experiencing one of the most successful years in all-around total performances, the junior high school sports activities increased in popularity and success. Opening the sports year under a new coach, Jerry Bush, the freshmen football squad finished a strong second place in the league competition, with an impressive 5-win, 1-lost record. The junior high cagers, guided by Coach Yeager managed to win the ninth grade league championship on the strength of an 8-4 won-lost record, with a 7-win, 1-lost record in league play. For the second successive season, Coach Beck's freshmen swimmers finished a very strong second place to Walnut Hills, losing by only a half a point, 202½ to 202. The junior high sports season ended with an impressive and promising track squad.

Matmen boost prestige and gain skill

In its second full year of operation, the varsity wrestling team, under Mr. Viner, finished with an improved, if not impressive, 3-won, 8-loss, 1-tie record. The squad's effectiveness improved during the season, and a fine ninth place finish in the district meet ended the year. While sixty boys tried out for the team, only twenty-six were able to survive vigorous training required to stay in top form throughout the winer season. Victories were scored over Colerain, Aiken, Oak Hills, and a 23-23 tie was recorded with Hughes. Three of the last four losses were decided by less than four points and resulted from several bad breaks. The grapplers performed admirably in the district meet; however, senior Harold McKinney placed third in the 127-lb division and heavy-weight Pete Schinaman was defeated in the finals, 2-0. Next year's team looks promising with five returning lettermen.

Mermen take PHSL and district titles

Coach Beck's mermen completed their most successful season by finishing first in both the league and district meets. Opening the season with resounding victories over arch rivals, Springfield North, Oak Hills, and Princeton, the team went on to capture two second place finishes in the PHSL and Miami relays. Following with three victorious Quadrangular meets, the swimmers went on to score an overwhelming 729 points to sweep the PHSL league title from Walnut. They then proceeded to an easily-won district title, and a final accomplishment of 16th at state. The mermen set 1 district, 3 league and 9 school records. Leading the mermen was sophomore Steve Connell who individually set four school records and established new league and district 50 yd. free style records. League and school records were set by Cary Cain in the 440 yd. free style, and Ray Witte in the 100 yd. breast stroke event.

Netters anticipate a very successful season

With the beginning of March the tennis squad joined the sports in preparing for the spring sports season. Headed by Coach Jerry Bush, the tennis squad in the early season was undistinguishable from track or football. Calisthenics, windsprints, isometrics and laps composed the agenda in the early spring. Later, when the boys were in shape, numerous drills were added to strengthen their skills. Coach Bush then organized play-offs to determine the coveted 7 positions with over 20 vying for the spots. Returning lettermen Jeff Brown, Dave Evans, Rod Thomas, and Barry Webb formed the nucleus of the team with strong support from other promising players. Starting with matches April 5th and ending with the districts, the netters competed in 16 matches with perennial rivals in Withrow, Walnut Hills, Elder, and Oak Hills.

With no returning lettermen to boost the team's morale, Coach Peters had to meet the challenge of choosing a well-knit golf squad. Tri-weekly practices helped to perfect the fundamentals of linksmen in swings, putting, sand blasting, and approach shots. Seniors led the squad into the season's opener which showed Colerain to be a stiff competitor. Withrow and Walnut proved to be both invigorating and challenging opponents to Western Hills' title hopes.

Cindermen build up endurance and speed

With the nucleus formed by eight returning lettermen, West High's 1966 track team was carefully chosen by Coach Bathiany after several weeks of vigorous training beginning in early March. Hoping to improve on last year's mediocre sixth place finish, the team demonstrated well-rounded abilities with the hurdles and the discus throw. Dominating the several events were: Mike Schott, low hurdles; Mark Naegel, high hurdles; and John Bonkowski, high jump. Runners for the team were: Tom Sutton and Jack Williams, sprints; Greg Fread and Tom Duffey, 440-yards; and Dave Martin and Larry Wyenandt, distance. The squad's pole vaulter was Ken Lichtendahl. The future of West Hi's track team seems bright with some returning lettermen.

Tension is the tightest for the men at plate as they await the hard fast pitch.

Varsity team faces a rugged season

With Coach Hauck directing the team, the varsity baseball squad hoped to perform in the typical Western Hills' tradition by following last year's regional championship with an undisputed state crown. The 1965 Mustangs recorded a sparkling 27-won, 1-lost record, losing to Stubenville in the state semi-finals. This year's lineup was composed of six returning lettermen. Patrolling the outfield were Dave Rose, Steve Phelps, Bob Brickweg; while Dave Heiss, Emil Roberto, Charlie Wilkins and Dan Hennekes rounded out the infield. Senior Bill Bridgeford performed admirably behind the plate receiving pitches from Underwood and Heiss. Pitcher-first baseman Heiss also proved to be the team's most consistent hitter, although the squad contained a balance of hitting and fielding abilities. The Mustangs played a twenty-three game schedule before tackling tournament play in early May.

S. Phelps gets a long solid drive to right field and drives in a run to tie the score.

Reserves work to brighten their record

With strong pitching provided by south paw Larry Plunkett and right handed Wayne Dudley, the reserves looked optimistically to a year of victory. Long tedious hours of perfecting their hitting, bunting, running, and fielding abilities rounded the squad into a strong league contender. With a new coach, Jack Schering, the boys hoped to further improve upon last year's record. Playing against varsity competition, the future varsity players held their own while gaining valuable experience and practice. Rival teams of Elder and Oak Hills gave the reserves the opportunity to show their ability in handling the game of baseball. New and fresh talent was continually developed and improved. Controll and speed, found in the catching position and a hustling infield helped build West Hi reserves into a power-house team.

Maroon W develops sportsmanship

Maroon W, an honor club at Western Hills, is composed of 50 letter winners in various sports. Symbolizing the spirit of participation, the club strives to develop character, sportsmanship, and scholarship. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Beck and Mr. Hauck, the boys participated in an eventful year. Bob Brickweg served as president, with Mike Schott, David Heiss, and Dick Lennox as his assistants. The year began as the boys formed a spirited cheering section and sold soft drinks and programs during Basketball games. The Maroon W Faculty game and the purchase of the new marquee added to the year's events. A May picnic highlighted Maroon W's activities with the initiation of new members. The year climaxed with the election of new officers, and the announcement of the all-around boy at the "All-Sports Banquet".

Posting weekly events on the marquee is the job of Maroon W officers Dave, Dick, Bob and Mike.

GAA sports invigorate spirited youth

With a cr-r-rack of her whip, ringmistress Cheryl Lake introduced Senior GAA as the "Greatest Show on Earth" at the September kick-off party. Officers and managers dressed as clowns or as circus performers acquainted members with a fantastic sports program. The first act of the three ring circus presented hockey, a sweatshirt sale, and a paper drive. Starring in the second act were a Christmas stocking sale, volleyball, and a Christmas party featuring Santa Clause himself! The tremendous show climaxed with the Mr. Western Hills Dance and May banquet proving the 1966 GAA program was really the "Greatest Show on Earth."

Striving to develop good sportsmanship and physical fitness among pupils are gym teachers Miss Witte, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Starrett.

GAA Managers: ROW ONE: J. McGannon, P. Schaffer, J. Pierson, S. Holtegel, M. Bolinger, C. Cappel, ROW TWO: R. Minder, J. Lacker, L. Rost, L. Williams, E. Mazza, J. Hertzner, ROW THREE: M. Martin, J. Petrick, C. Gulden, K. Norden, K. Furio.

"Why not buy one of these?" suggests Maxine Brady. The cookies at the Junior GAA bakesale look very tempting to her three hungry customers.

Go Jr. GAA!

"Our next model is wearing a rather baggy, but stylish blue gym suit." Thus, the commentator announced the year for Junior GAA-ers at a fall fashion show. The sports enthusiasts continued to initiate projects. Two bake sales provided funds for a gala Christmas party and an Easter gift for needy families. Members fashionably completed the year, receiving offices and honors at the May banquet.

Elaine and Marsha oppose two teachers at the comical GAA Bloomer Bounce.

Hockey is a challenging sport to Joan McGannon, Kay Wagner, Marsha Hardesty, Bev Findley, Rosie Meinders, Karen Furio, and Gloria Bennet.

Drive for a goal! Hockey begins fall

One hundred and four exuberant girls dashed to the field anxiously awaiting the sound of the whistle and the start of another fun-filled hockey season. From September to November the hockey enthusiasts, hoping to be chosen for the advanced teams, vigorously perfected skills of driving, passing, dribbling, and blocking. Twenty-seven advanced players sported numerous bruises and bumps from long after-school practice sessions, but were defeated only once before the All-City Playday at Withrow ended another action-packed season.

"More hockey sticks!" complains Candy Cappel, GAA hockey manager, already overloaded with equipment.

"Ground sticks hit!" is the echoing sound that begins the hockey game.

Volleyball requires agility and skill

Jump! Stretch! Spike the ball! Strenuous volleyball games resulted in pulled muscles and jammed fingers for many GAA members. However, manager Karen Norden and sponsor Mrs. Smith were always "on the job," bandaging injuries as well as scheduling games with Hughes and Wyoming and organizing teams. The round-robin tournament climaxed with class team competition and January Playday. Although battered and bruised, the players found exercise and fun do mix.

Diplomacy and tact are forgotten when Nancy Wenger must make quick decisions in officiating for volleyball.

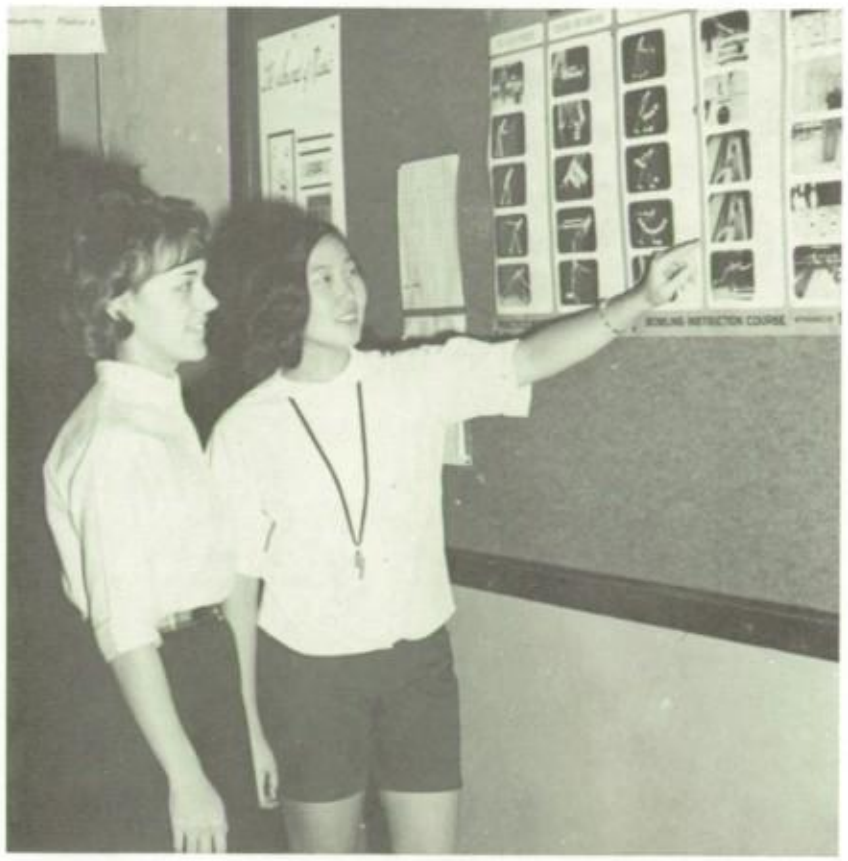
Countering the impact of agile spiker Gloria Bennett's powerful volley, Barbara Griswold effectively blocks.

Combining ability with determination, Lois Rost, senior GAA archer, displays the dexterous form and precision needed for accurate hitting.

Variety keynotes GAA sports

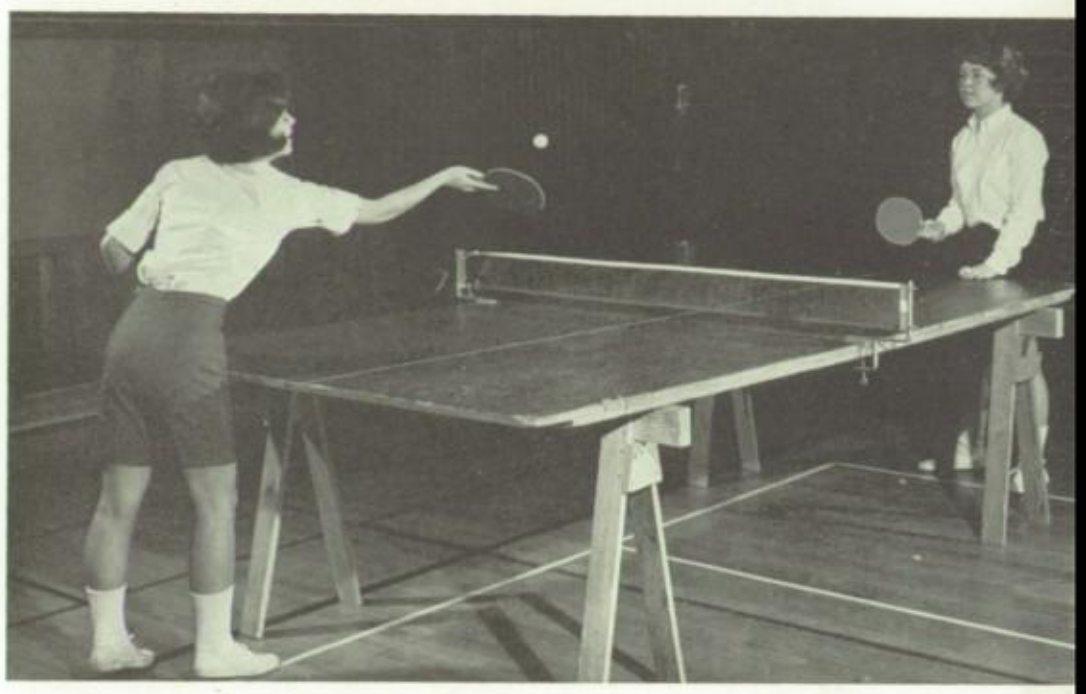
Badminton anyone? . . . or ping pong? . . . bowling? . . . golf or archery? GAA provides an activity to satisfy every interest! As the year swings into motion with golf, members invade driving ranges. A gutter ball or two doesn't daunt GAA bowlers, who strive to down the pins at tournaments. Later, the resounding bounce of ping pong balls and the whiz of badminton rackets in the gym indicate that winter activities have commenced. As arrows dart to the target on brisk days of spring, girls declare they've hit their mark with GAA.

Eyeing a hole in one are advanced golfers: N. Wiethe, N. Garretson, K. Kocher, B. Griswold, and B. Kamp.



Mrs. Starrett and top bowler Bev Findley discuss correct techniques which are essential in retaining both a high bowling score and average.

Marsha Bolinger, table tennis manager, demonstrates to Jill Ambrosius how alertness, flexibility, aim, and determination encourage a victory.

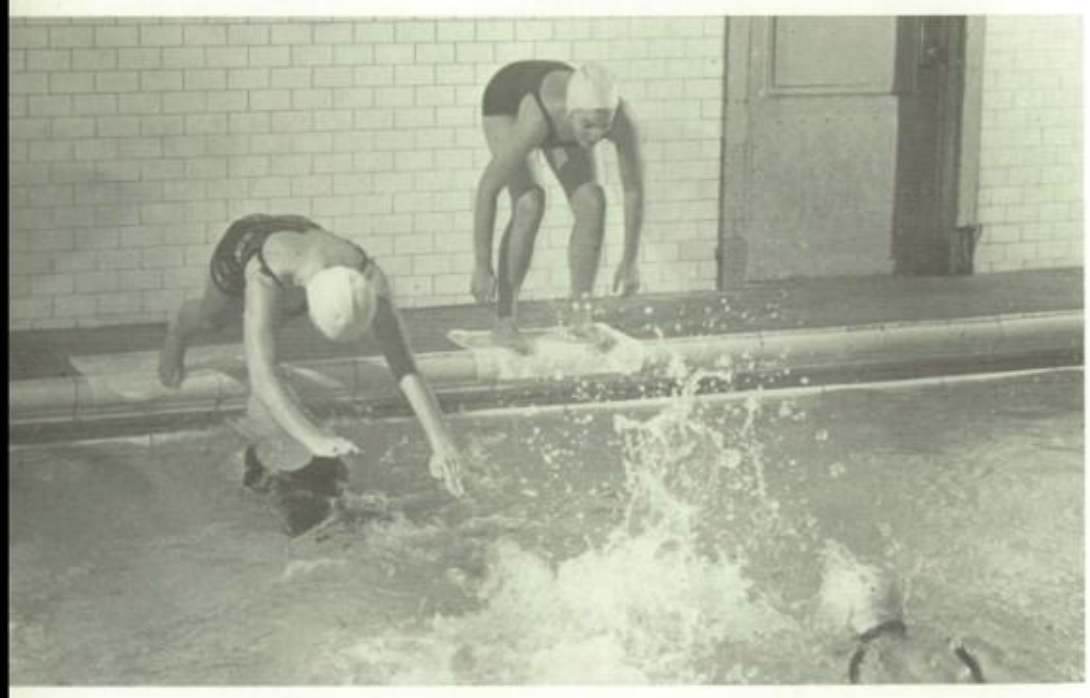


Sandy Holtegel, GAA gymnastic manager, demonstrates her interpretation of the "bird nest." Mrs. Smith, acting as a spotter, explains the feat as Sandy performs.

Long hours of after-school practice lend beauty and precision to Cookie Carter's flawless dive.

Mermaids plunge into swimmeets

"Hey! that water's cold . . . quit splashing!" While autumn leaves turned red and yellow, senior high girls splashed and shouted noisily in the swimming pool. But just as the leaves dropped from the trees, the shouts soon turned to tired complaints as the girls swam and studied to perfect their lifesaving skills. At the end of the season the girls were required to pass both a written test and a water test to become qualified lifesavers. The beginning of the second semester brought swimming team practice, and girls trudged to school through snow and ice to work diligently on their strokes. The weeks of hard practice soon paid off as the girls participated in several meets with other schools. Along with the spring season came synchronized swimming. Swimming gracefully together to music, the girls ended the season with a water show.



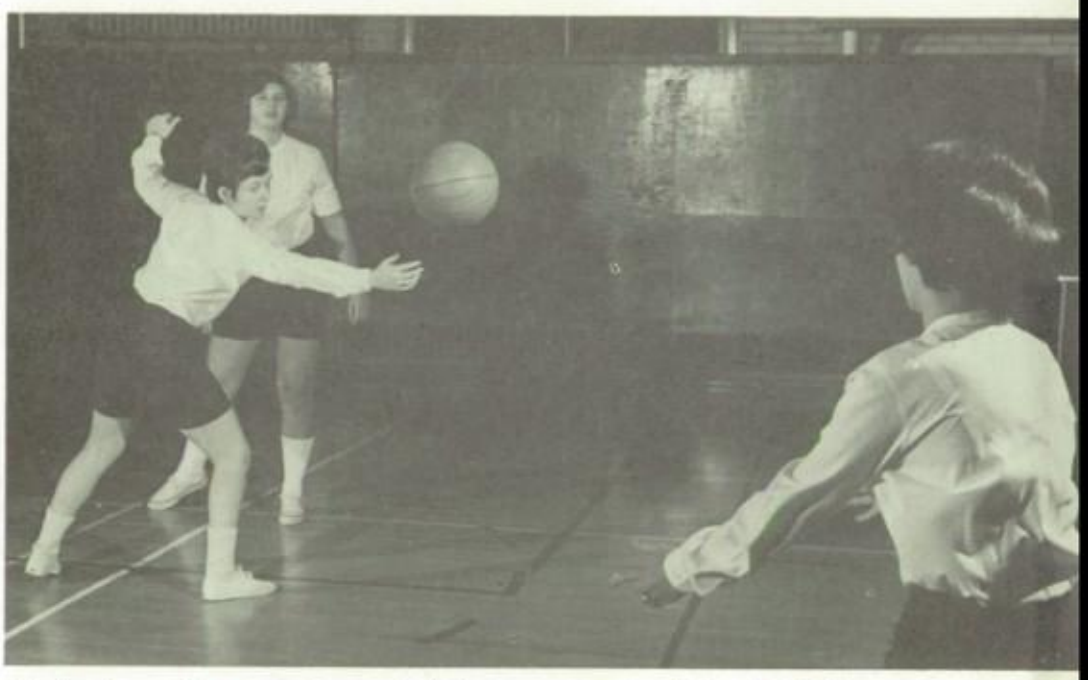
Stiff competition makes for an exciting relay, as anchormen swim their final lap trying to capture victory for their junior or senior teammates.

Senior lifesavers demonstrato the "Underwater Approach."

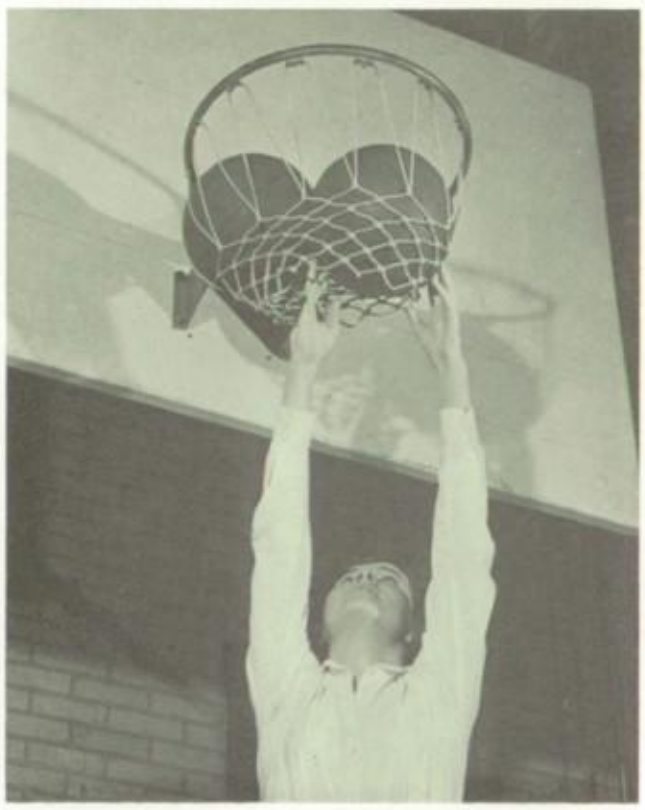
GAA-ers shoot and score

Short girls, tall girls, all girls came out to participate in the 1966 basketball season. Ninety girls formed eleven teams. Manager Rosie Meinders, with the aid of Mrs. Starrett, arranged for sophomores to play on Thursdays, and for juniors and seniors on Tuesdays. The season's finale was a city-wide playday, which West High hosted.

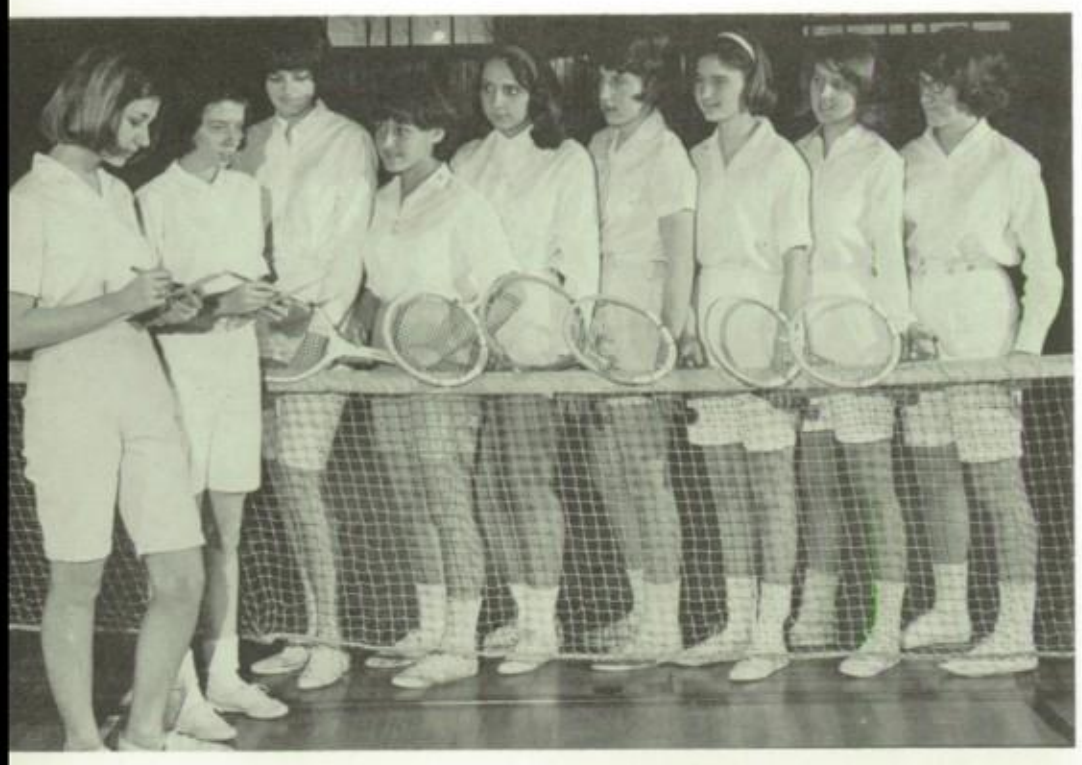
Striving to out-jump her opponent, Karen Furio, is agile Kay Wagner.



Hoping for a chance to score, Jackie's teammates signal for the ball.



The hardships of being basketball manager include a variety of both adventurous and fun-filled tasks for Rosie Meinders.



Advanced tennis team members look forward to a successful season.

Rackets Whiz!

While autumn leaves tumbled down, GAA tennis managers Cheryl Gulden and Janet Petrick encouraged their prodigies to participate in a doubles tournament. Winter snows sent the girls into the gym to practice skills with Miss Witte's assistance. In the spring, the advanced teams vied with droves of caterpillers for rightful possession of the courts while participating in inter-school matches.

Form and precision are Helen's winning traits.

"It's a hit!" shout Karen Norden's teammates as she runs to first as P. Borcherding reaches for the ball.

"That cold water tastes so-o-o good!" say tired baseball players Linda Farison, Marie Staubitz, and Sue Erhart.

Softball sparks fresh enthusiasm

Springtime turns the GAA members' fancy to softball, accounting for the crack of bats and excited shouts which echoed from the softball fields in warm weather. Practicing on many breezy afternoons, girls achieve accuracy in hitting, pitching and catching.

D. Heilmann and B. Mills trap N. Chastain, darting toward home, as umpire J. Lacker follows the play.

Cum Laude—Highest Scholastic Honor

In an assembly on March 10, 1966 eleven seniors were tapped for Cum Laude. Row One: Sherry Scull, Merial Spaulding. Row Two: Cheryl Lake, Donna Bihn, Sandy Thomas, Row Three: Steve Cramer, Allen Mosbaugh. Row Four: Jo Ann Lacker, Bill O'Connell, Steve Wulff, Judy Kulstad.

Honors— Highest Goals Attained!

The buzz of senior homeroom ceases as Mr. Havlovic walks onto the stage . . . As he announces the eleven top ranking seniors, he presents them with the coveted Cum Laude pin. An overwhelming feeling of pride engulfs them, as well as other Western Hills students who are recognized for their respective achievements — a queen presented with red roses and a crown, a college-bound senior granted a scholarship, an outstanding student elected to office, or a violin player receiving a superior rating at music contest.

"I wish Kerry would hurry and announce who the winner is ... the suspense is killing me!"

"A tiara being placed on MY head ... and a big bouquet of red roses ... I can't believe it!"

The thrill of being crowned Basketball Queen evokes joyful tears to "Queen" Nancy Wiethe.

Posing by their life-like caricatures are characters involved in the "eternal love triangle", Francis X. Dignan, Dunreath Henry and Larry Larkins.

Hilarious spoof— "The King of Hearts"

"King of Hearts", an uproariously funny comedy, was the first of the season and the first under the direction of the new Dramatics Department head, Mrs. Rita Stull. The setting is the studio of artist, Larry Larkins, (David Altemeier) who draws the comic strip, "Snips". When he and his attractive secretary, Dunreath Henry (Geri Thomas) prepare to leave on their honeymoon, an insecure ghost cartoonist, Francis X. Dignan (Terry Moore) is hired to draw the comic strip. The three become involved in the eternal love triangle and in hilarious intellectual hassles. A dog, two teenage boys, a maid, and a cynical employer add their interpretation to this humorous situation. Playing the supporting roles were Rick Young, Jon Cruze, Bill Kramer, Cheryl Ackenhauser, Bill Robinson, and Pete Theilen.

"Sorry boys, but you must get rid of Happy, that shaggy dog, before your parents do!" warns friendly Joe Wickers to Billy and Norman.

On goes the cold cream—the transformation begins!

With a skillful touch, Helen Mills applies dark lines to age the youthful face of actor J. Schoenberger.

A sophisticated Max Detweiler emerges as the final touch is applied. A mustache adds to his characterization as a rogue.

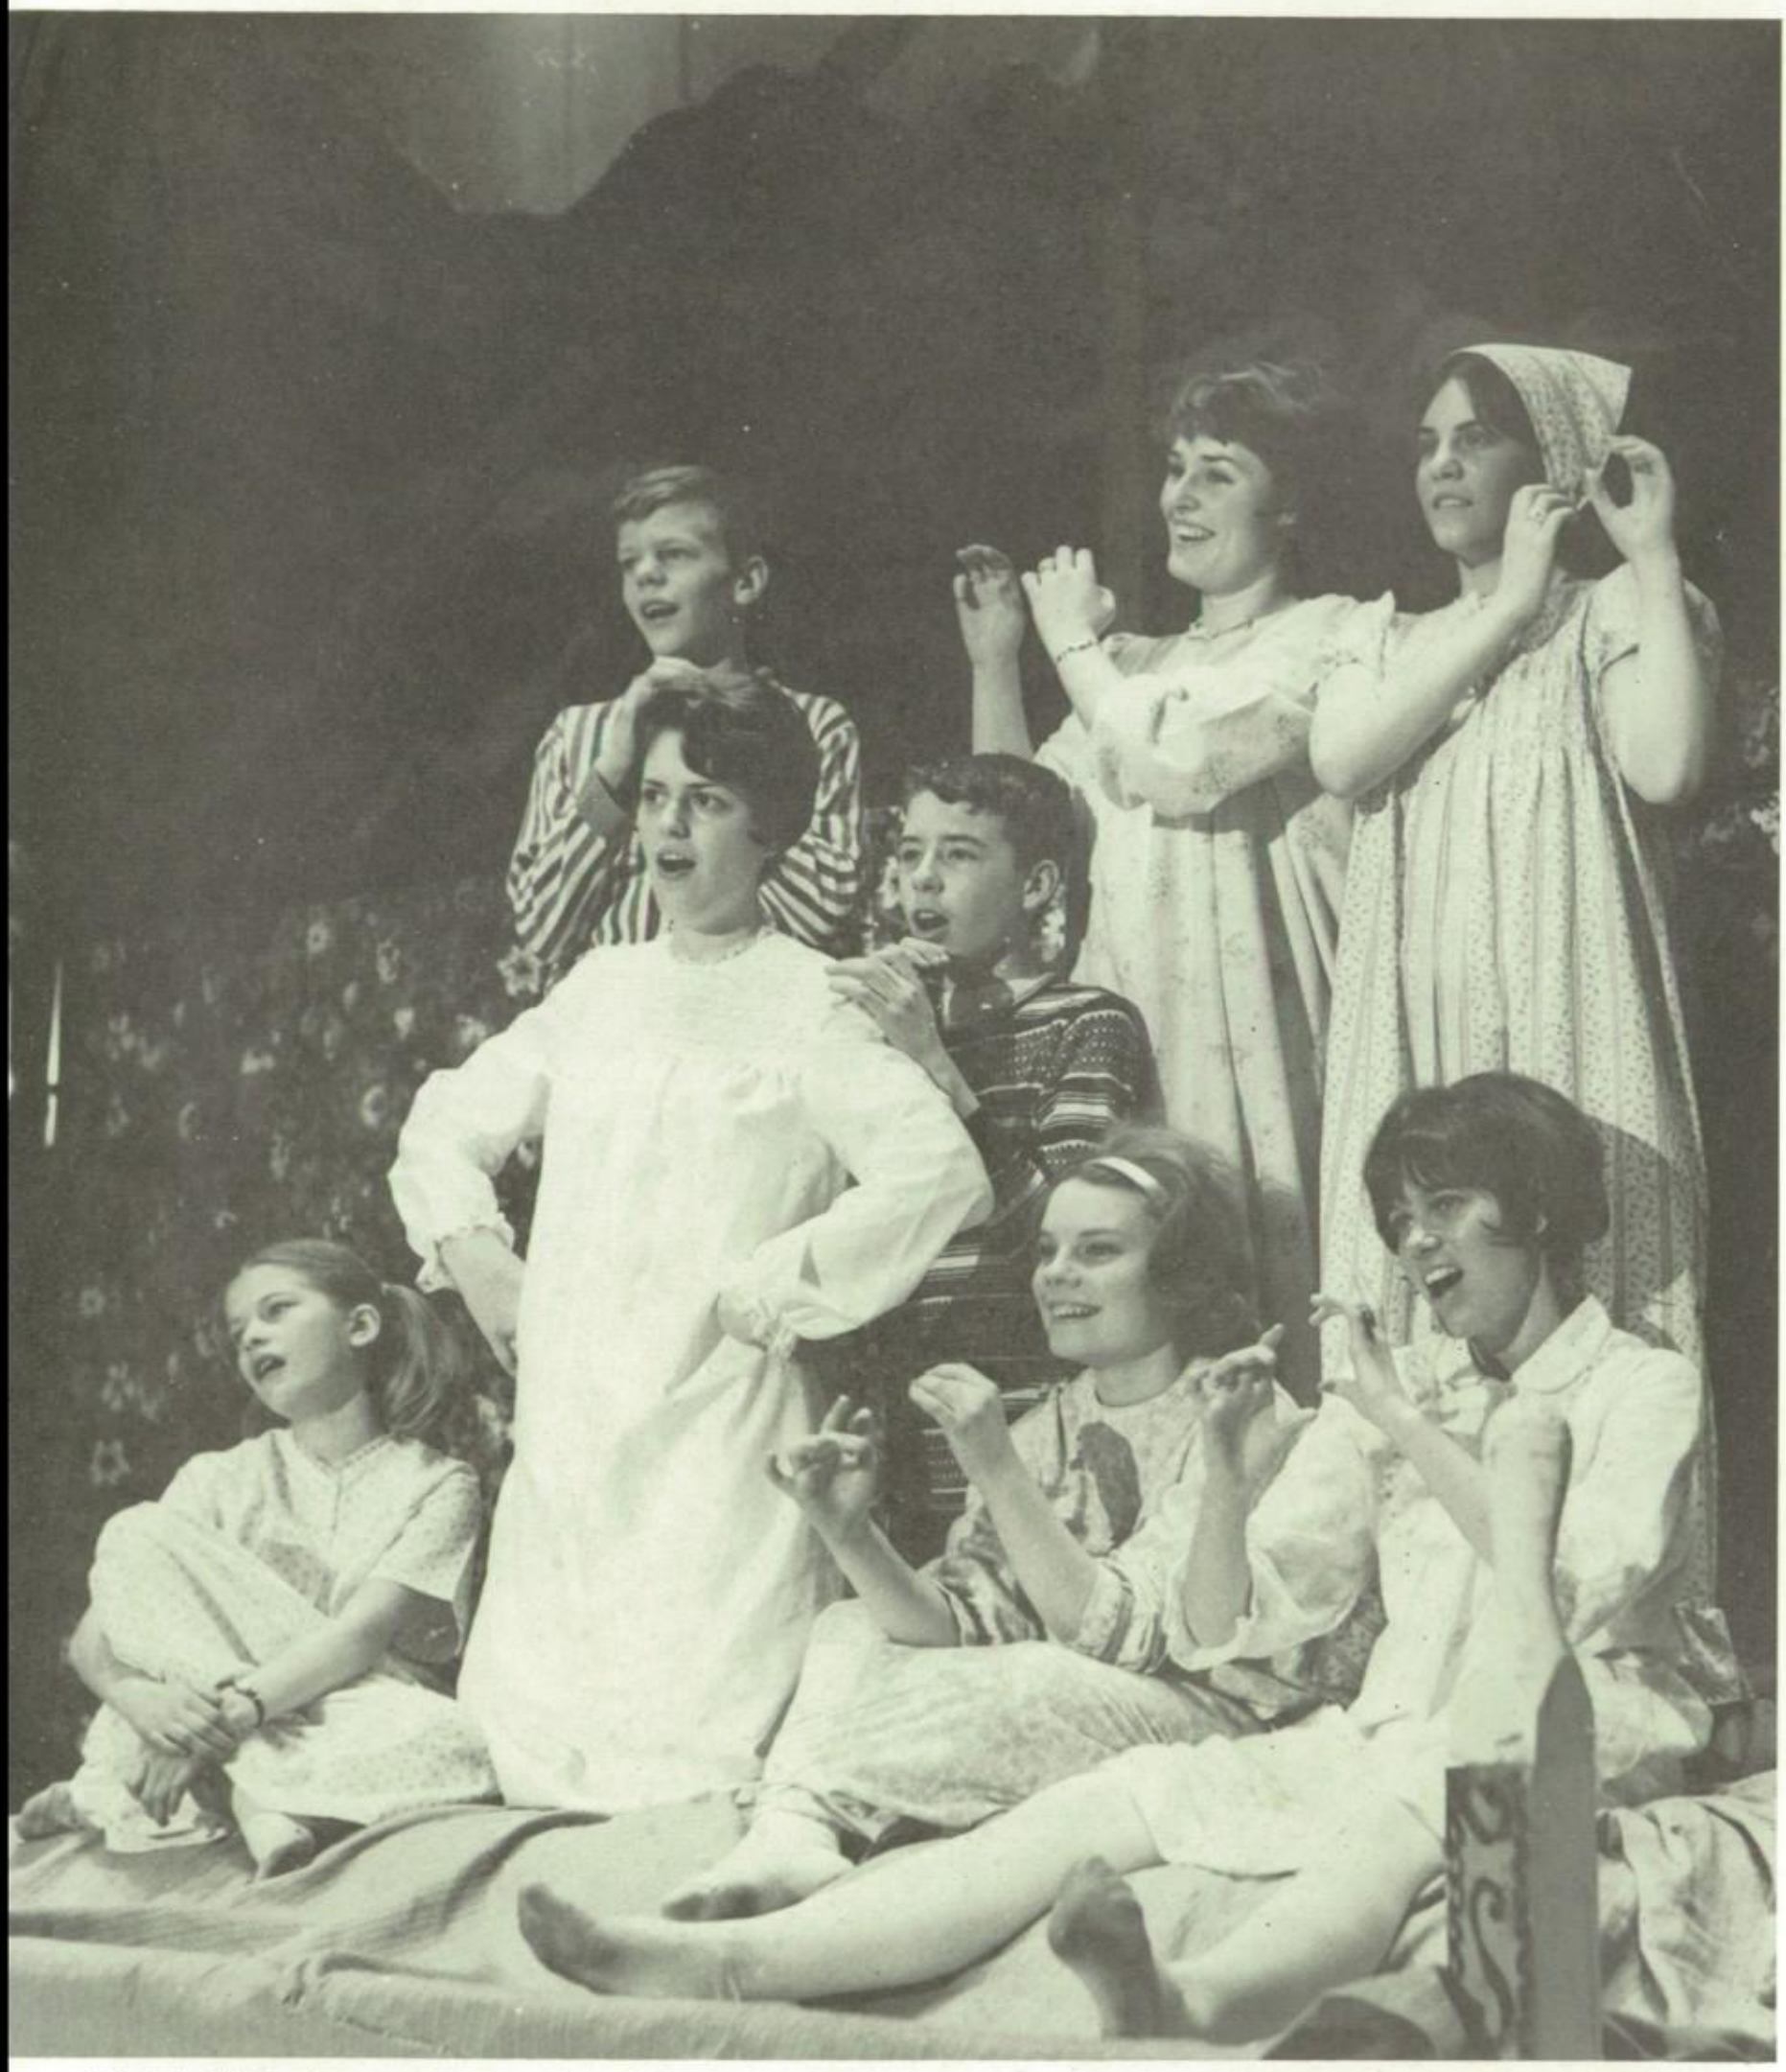
Art crew head, Jon Parr, busily designs scenery, posters and program covers for "Sound of Music".

Cast and crews combine talents in musical

Excitement mounts as the cast list is posted! Try-outs are over and long hours of preparation are under way. Crews design posters, assemble the myriad of props, and canvass area stores in search of costume material. Scenery is built, curtains hung, and cues learned. Application of make-up is practiced. The cast memorize their lines, learn blocking and rehearse, rehearse, and rehearse. Excitement reaches a fever pitch when, on opening night, the house lights dim, the overture begins, the crowd hushes and the curtain opens. "The Sound of Music" has begun!

"Swish, swish ... the hills are alive ... hammer, saw ... with the sound of music!" Thespian Society officers Lynn Lantry, Cheryl Gulden, Carol Haas, Steve Wulff, Robert McGurk, Jim Schoenberger, Nancy Garretson, and Tim Peters sing while they hang curtains, build sets, and paint scenery.

"The Sound of Music"—
A blend of enchantment and drama



Tah, tah, tah! To drown out the noisy claps of the thunder, the children imitate a German brass band and sing "The Lonely Goatherd" with Maria.

"Sound of Music" echoes through the halls

"The Sound of Music" — a sound of charming ballads, lilting airs, jaunty Austrian tunes and soaring ceremonial music. Through the combined efforts of the Dramatics and Music Departments, the popular musical was presented on March 31, April 1 and 2. The story is based on the true experiences of the von Trapp family. After the death of their mother, the children had a series of governesses and their father (Pete Theilen) had become a martinet. When Maria (Kathy Kocher) was sent from the nearby Abbey to be their new governess she found the children (Liesl, Nancy Garretson; Freidrich, Tom Pardo; Louisa, Marilyn Hader; Brigitta, Susie Suttle; Kurt, Greg Huffman; Marta, Jaynee Ritchie; and Gretl, Barbara Schneider) behaving like machines. She brought music and gaiety into their lives and through music the family was able to flee from the Nazis. Family friend, Max Detweiler (Craig McClellan) and the nuns from the Abbey aided in their escape across the mountains.

Both Elsa and Captain von Trapp are rich. With no problems, Max wonders how their love can survive.

As she sees the Captain and Maria dancing, Elsa Schraeder, Georg's fiancee, realizes that Maria is more than a governess to the Captain.

"We give our worldly dresses to the poor; they didn't want this one!" retorts Maria.

"So long, farewell, auf wiedersehn, good night." The party guests stand enraptured as the children sing goodnight in their first public performance.

Nuns at Nonnbery Abbey wish Maria happiness as they assist her in preparing for marriage ceremony.

What is Maria? Is she a darling . . . a demon, a headache . . . a lamb? Nonnberg Abbey sisters disagree in the song, "How do you solve a problem like Maria?"

Orchestra wins unanimous superior rating

"Versatility" best described Senior Orchestra this year. From the classic number, "Slavonic Dance" to the light-hearted tunes of "The Sound of Music", the orchestra demonstrated the many facets of this outstanding musical organization. The versatility of the eighty-one musicians, combined with the guidance of Mr. Andrew Brady, enabled the group to win its seventh consecutive superior rating at the state music contest. This year, for the first time, the judges were unanimous in rating them superior in both categories of performance and sight-reading. Performing throughout the year, the orchestra presented a Christmas, Winter, and Spring Concert, participated in the All-City Festival, and played in West High's musical production, "The Sound of Music". The orchestra year continued through graduation with their annual performance of "Pomp and Circumstance."

Senior Choir practices and performs

"Do, re, mi, fa . . . no, no . . . tenors, you're flat! . . . let's try it again! . . ." Such words are familiar to members of Senior Choir who spend third bell each day singing a wide variety of choral literature. Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Schneider, the group begins each practice session with a series of "warm-up" or vocal exercises and continues rehearsing numbers striving for good tone quality, balance, blend, intonation and interpretation. Senior Choir sang at school assemblies and at the Christmas and Spring Concerts.

Youthful voices carol merrily

Making a striking appearance in their new maroon blazers, members of Studio Choir blend their voices to sing in various performances at school and throughout the city. The forty singers, selected for their singing and sight reading ability, are proud representatives of the Western Hills Choral Music Department.

" 'Tis the season to be jolly!" sing out high-spirited members of Studio Choir as they carol through the halls during the joyous and hectic yuletide season.

"Toot, toot, whoo, whoo!" An improvised band of water-filled jugs and recorders pipes out a simple but effective tune at a morning practice.

Variety sparks enthusiasm in Sr. Band

"Introducing the 1965 Western Hills Mustang Marching Band!" . . . With a drum roll and a blaring trumpet fanfare the band struts onto the field — another half-time show has begun! Under the leadership of Mr. Andrew Brady, the band, clad in flashy new maroon and cream uniforms, performs intricate formations. After football season the group emerges as a Concert Band and spends endless winter hours rehearsing for concerts and district and state contests, hoping to achieve superior ratings. A rousing free-for-all picnic initiates new members into Band Letter Club.

Ambition and vitality assure yearbook honors

Selling ads, writing copy, mounting pictures, rewriting copy, drawing layouts, and consuming stacks of grilled cheese sandwiches and cokes — these activities typified the 1965-66 Annual Staff members as they worked to produce another award-winning yearbook. As deadlines approached, troops of staff members paraded between 210 and 202 crying, "Who took the Thesaurus? . . . What happened to my copy block? . . . Where's the Faculty dummy?" Often thinking the job would never get done, conscientious staff members frequently held work nights and sacrificed lunch bells in order to work on the Annual. Through the tireless efforts of each one on the staff, the constant pressures and overwhelming obstacles were overcome, and a yearbook, representing all phases of student life at Western Hills High became a reality.

"Picture days certainly are hectic!" exclaim L. Rost and R. Meinders.

Breeze staff seeks headline news

"It's Press Day!" To BREEZE staffers these three words mean the culmination of two weeks of hard work – making layouts, posting assignments, interviewing students and teachers, writing stories, and copyreading. To add to the general confusion of hectic press days the BREEZE staff began printing the paper themselves this year. Despite having to cope with broken machinery at deadline time, harried staff members valiantly came through doing an excellent job of reporting and producing an outstanding newspaper.

A newspaper reporter must go anywhere to acquire a good and appealing story.

Another hectic press day means pasting hundreds of galley proofs for "Breeze" feature page co-editors Linda Allendorf and Barbara Jones.

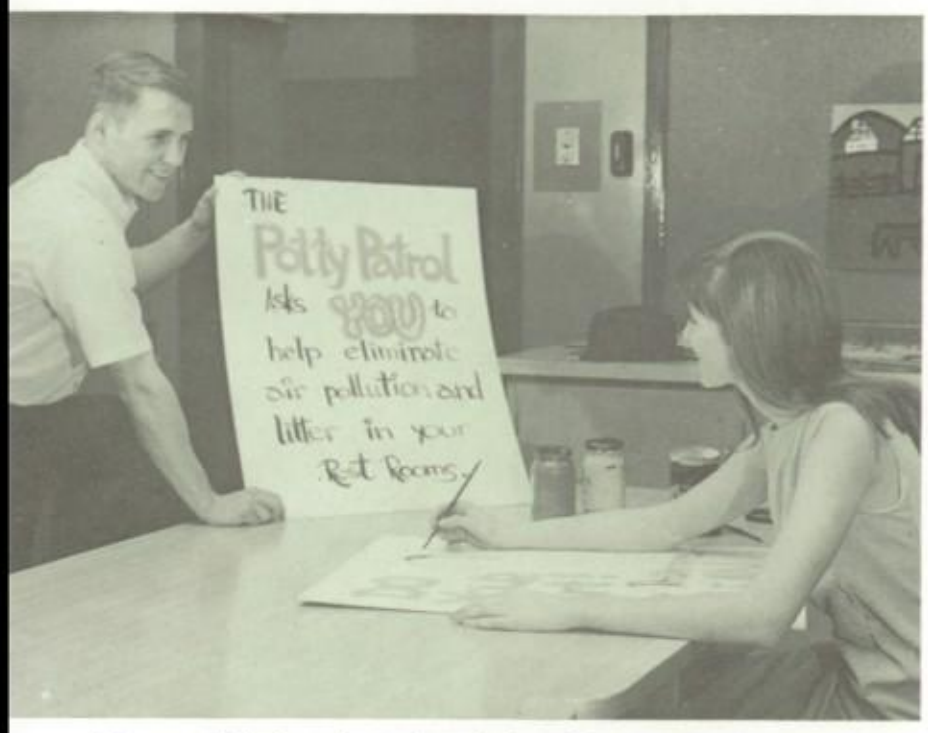
Novelty keynotes energetic Student Council

New and challenging activities punctuated the year for Student Council officers and representatives. Striving to maintain an efficient student government, Council conducted elections, publicized important events, and discussed problems at Student-Teacher-Parent board. To raise $500 for the annual scholarship, Student Council sponsored the Homecoming and Basketball Dances. Besides the traditional activities, Council innovated the selling of stadium cushions and Senior High student directories from a "Corral" which they had constructed.

Being sworn into office is the start of an active year for Council officers Barry Webb, Dick Lenox, Karen Norden, and Denise Metzger.

Student Council's social committee finds that transforming the gym into a land of cupids and hearts is an enjoyable task.



"Do you think that the student body will pay attention to our posters and keep the restrooms clean?" Dick Lennox and Lisa Hughes wonder.

"We must devise a new method of electing class officers," stresses Student Council president, Barry Webb, to attentive representatives.

"Need a cushion? Some stationery maybe? What about a student directory?" inquire Student Council salesmen Bob Lenhart and Barry Webb.

In the traditional Roman togas, Latin Club officers pay tribute to Mr. Michaels and Mrs. Spickard with punch, a custom following all banquets.

Latin Club prospers

"Gaudemus igiter, juvenis dum sumus!" As the choruses of this medieval song rang out at the SPQR banquet, Latin students recalled a year of prosperous activities and hours of fun. With the helpful and clever guidance of sponsors Mrs. Spickard and Mr. Michaels, Latin Club held a canteen, a picnic, and a Christmas party. In the month of March, Latin students wore banners and pins cautioning West High to "Beware the Ides of March".

German Club thrives

"Gemutlichkeit", a German word for affability and plain good times, strikes the main theme of West Hi's German Club. Led by president Ron Dieckman, the twenty members sponsored a picnic and a hayride. They also bought German records and tapes assuring the continuance of boisterous songfests in the language lab.

Spaniards dramatize

Spanish Club members launched a successful year with their presentation of the Spanish version of "Snow White". During the holiday season, students contested madly for the festive pinatas filled with goodies. Wafted in on a spring breeze, the sizzling aroma of hot Mexican food prepared by officers drew students to the banquet.

The fall season took members of Spanish Club into a land of fantasy and fun, as they enjoyed the comical performance of "Blancanieves".

Frenchmen—gourmets

Two and a half cups of French enthusiasm, one teaspoon of French "savoir-faire", and a pinch of ingenuity sparked French Club to a successful year. A French progressive dinner, a speaker from the Alliance Francais and dinner at the Maisonette highlighted the year for ambitious French Club members.

"That casserole looks good!" "Umm I just love French bread." "I wonder what's for dessert." French club members eagerly sample the delicious Parisian dishes like French Delight served by officers Steve Cramer, Linda Farison, Connie Cochran, and Sherry Scull at the progressive dinner.

Discussing and locating places of world crises are JCOWA officers: Donna Jean O'Hara, Bill O'Connell, Sue Mette, and Anita Woods.

World issues interest JCOWA members

Education in Russia, post-war developments in Germany, politics in France — Junior Council on World Affairs investigated all these thought-provoking subjects at monthly meetings. Animated discussions followed filmstrips and lectures, giving members a greater insight into contemporary problems.

"Can girls really play chess?" wonder the skeptical male members of Chess Club: Steve Wulff, John Rushe, Dave Railey and Bill O'Connell.

Chess provokes concentration

Concentration and logical thinking — these are qualities needed to play chess. Members of chess club, led by president Bill O'Connell and advisor, Mr. Shackelford, organized the Inter-Scholastic League and competed with students from Elder, Aiken, Xavier, La Salle, Greenhills and Oak Hills high schools. Practice sessions were held on Thursday afternoons and for the first time this year girls were admitted to this formerly all-male club.

"Buy our balloons!" urge officers Marsha Bolinger, Merial Spaulding, Peg Newhouse, Barbara Griswold, Cheryl Lake, and Jill Ambrosius.

Pep Club enhances school spirit

This year Pep Club started new traditions and followed old ones to spark school spirit. Led by president Marsha Bolinger, the club initiated the building of a float for the Elder game, and organized the first pep rally and the traditional pre-Elder game Pow Wow. Bakesales, shaker sales, and a canteen kept members busy until the year-end outing at Meadowbrook where awards were presented.

FTA learns new teaching procedures

FTA — these three letters spelled an exciting year of fun, hard work, and valuable experience for students interested in teaching. Activities included a service project at the Allen House and excursions to both an elementary school and a city-wide convention at the University of Cincinnati.

F.T.A. members K. Harvey, N. Hutchinson, N. Paulsen, L. Ahr, N. Wenger, and S. Mette aim to compensate for the teacher deficit.

HCC members gain invaluable experience

What are the qualifications of a social worker? What is the function of a Health Center? What type of care is being given the mentally ill? Answers to these questions may help students interested in health careers decide on their future vocations. By listening to speakers, visiting health centers and participating in Health Careers Day at Cincinnati hospitals, members of HCC gained insight into the duties and qualifications for various jobs in the field of health.

Health careers officers, B. Kirchner, P. Uebel, R. Meiners and C. Ackenhausen glimpse their chosen occupations while touring a hospital.

FBLA wins honors at state conflux

Although only three years old, FBLA can boast of one of the largest memberships at West High. The one hundred and fifty members learned about the business world by hearing speakers prominent in the field and entered into that field by purchasing stock. At State Convention they won a first place trophy for attendance and a first runner-up trophy for their display. A fifty dollar scholarship, awarded to their most promising member at the Mother-Daughter banquet, climaxed the year for FBLA.

FBLA officers S. Belmonte, L. Landers, K. Furio, and C. Wright proudly display their prize-winning project on development of business.

"We must go to state," vow Orchestra Pin Club officers Jim Vieth, Donna Jean O'Hara, Candy Cappel, Marie Staubitz and Judy Kulstad.

Orchestra Pin Club provides recreation

Practice! practice! practice! For members of Senior Orchestra who spend hours each week practicing scales, bowing, and other techniques, in addition to rehearsals, Orchestra Pin Club provides a pleasant diversion by scheduling fun-filled activities. This year the club planned and sponsored a skating party and a bowling party. After members carolled throughout the Western Hills area, they gathered at a member's home for a Christmas party. All these amusements renewed their energy for better musical performances.

Band Letter Club sparks enthusiasm in band

Band Letter Club, whose spirited members constitute the powerful nucleus of Senior Band, strives to improve and promote the organization. Serving as the governing body of the band and working very closely with Mr. Brady, members sponsored candy apple sales, bakesales, and a football canteen. The climax to the year's activities came in May, when at their rollicking picnic, new members of band letter club were tapped and initiated.

Band Letter Club officers B. Minor, W. Hill, T. Wagner, and J. Evans inspect awards to be given at the annual picnic.

Fellowship binds Hi-Y members

Westwood YMCA was the scene of weekly meetings for energetic Hi-Y members who planned and carried out many social, athletic, and service activities. Faithfully perpetuating West High tradition, members applied elbow grease to shine the school's trophies, and sold programs at the Elder game and Christmas trees in December.

Y-Teens radiates friendly warmth

With activity as the password, Y-Teens experienced a busy but rewarding year. During Education Week, members surprised the teachers by stashing small packages of sugar, tea, and apples in their mailboxes. Goodwill continued through the holidays as members prepared food baskets for needy families. For fun and finance Y-Teens held their annual potato chip sale, a semi-formal dance and the gala Mother-Daughter Banquet. Vicky Hopkins, president, represented Western Hills at the National Convention.

Y-Teens officers dress Nancy Fear, their own personal Easter bunny, for an Easter party given at the Children's Convalescent Home.

"Lace up your skates before your fingers turn blue!" exclaim Junior High Pep Club officers S. Mulhauser, P. Coyle, T. Horman, and L. Talbott.

Junior High vitality launches activity

Decorating for the "Twilight Twirl," Junior Student Council officers Ken, Ron, Karen and Maggie add the finishing touch—a big, red heart!

"When can I do my homework?" laments the junior high pupil as he endeavors to choose from a multitude of activities. Wondering whether he should join Student Council or Pep Club, play in the band, or strive for acceptance into Junior Honor Society, he recalls that Student Council had an exceptionally active year – sponsoring the annual Twilight Twirl, a Student-Faculty basketball game, a Battle of the Bands, and a paper drive. Reminiscing further, the student remembers that Junior Honor Society initiated thirty members into the chapter. The society also sponsored an Awards Day in the spring and presented trophies to the top-ranking students in each class. On the other hand, the junior high student has happy memories of spirit sparked by Pep Club and Junior High Band. Outfitted in "hand-me-downs" from their Senior High counterparts, the band presented half-time shows at football games. Pep Club backed their team and with the same high spirits went to their skating party and candy apple sales. With such a variety of activities, a selection is difficult, but any choice will be a satisfying one!

After striving for good scholastics, citizenship, and character, a Junior High student is rewarded with membership in National Honor Society.

JUNIOR HIGH BAND: ROW ONE (Front to rear): J. Holtegel, C. Neal, P. Winters, J. Biedinger, S. Spiess, T. Jones. ROW TWO: M. Higgins, D. Bolsen, J. Estes, G. McMurrer, L. Perkins. ROW THREE: H. Rose, M. Murphy, C. Van Hook, S. Mills, J. Taylor, K. Cain, A. Spickard. ROW FOUR: B. Gibbas, B. Verwold, M. Gilroy, D. Lance, J. Madox, J. Vassil. ROW FIVE: D. Mire, J. Snape, D. Hageman, M. Graduation has arrived, in a flurry of

white formals and red roses . . . A moment wrapped in a coiled diploma symbolizes

the joy and tears, the happiness and pride, of many fruitful years spent at Western Hills High School.

A world to be born . . .

The years have passed . . . A world created of brown stone walls drifts into expanding worlds beyond those walls, taking with it the dreams and plans of a progressive generation.

Sandy Thomas and Bill Karas pick college.

Lavenda Moses selects a business career.

The armed services interest Bob Reusing.

A WORLD TO
UNDER YOUR FOOTSTEPS

For a quarter of a century the old fashioned lad from Indianapolis has been wheeling to Western Hills High School. During these 25 years he has taught approximately 500 boys and girls on the annual staffs the techniques of design, layout, copy continuity and illustrative photography. To him these Golden Years are memorable because the Western Hills Annual always has beeen judged near perfect and 500 boys and girls have had outstanding creative experiences.

10, 9, 8, . . . annual staffers stage a countdown to press day April 1.

Despite the pressure of deadlines, when it seemed as if the "world under our footsteps" might collapse, we managed to produce a complete 1966 yearbook—and loved every minute of it! We hope that our classmates will enjoy reading their book as much as we have enjoyed preparing it for them.

It's finished! It's actually written, typed, proofed, and SENT! Through some rather frustrating difficulties, we annual staffers kept our heads, collected our wits, and finished THE BOOK. When the Recreation Commission locked our photographer Mr. Benson in the baseball field, we jacked up the fence . . . when the engraver sent us tons of dummy paper made the wrong size, we drew our own . . . when April 1 approached and we still had "47 captions, ten heads, and 14 copy blocks to write," we toted our bedrolls to a staff member's house and worked all night.

Annual layouts get sprinkled with grilled cheese crumbs at worknights.

Even industrious annual staff members get bleary-eyed working on copy and layouts until 3:00 A.M.

THE 1966 ANNUAL STAFF

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Sherry Scull ---------- (who stretched her work day to 36 hours to include basketball games)

PRODUCTION MANAGER
Rosemary Meinders ---------- (who prayed that if a mistake were made, somebody else made it)

COPY
Lois Rost, Editor ---------- (who counted captions in her sleep)

WRITERS: Jill Ambrosius, Barb Bolsen, Kay Chapman

PHOTOGRAPHY AND ENGRAVING
Rosemary Meinders, Editor

BUSINESS
Nancy Wiethe, Co-Editor ---------- (who was known by her quiet laugh)
Marsha Bolinger, Co-Editor ---------- (who definitely decided to go to Ohio State . . . then Ohio University . . . then Ohio State . . .)

ACADEMIC
Judy Pierson, Co-Editor ---------- (who was cool, calm, and collected at all times)
Barb Griswold, Co-Editor

FACULTY
Sue Hillsley, Co-Editor ---------- (who exhausted the budget by chewing up our pencils)
Sheila Varner, Co-Editor ---------- (who was the staff's most accurate typist)

UNDERCLASS
Darla Bateman, Co-Editor ---------- (whose devotion was undying)

An unusually small staff of 13 members set out to produce the 1966 annual with the spunk and determination necessary to finish a demanding task. We encountered many obstacles — some amusing, some annoying, but all teaching us to retain patience and a sense of humor. We realize that without the help of many wonderful people, we never could have completed the yearbook. To these people, we want to extend our thanks:

Indiana School Pictures, for excellent underclass portraits; Mr. Robert Merriman of the Durand Cover Company for our cover; The Cincinnati Bell Telephone Company for allowing us to use their facilities for one picture on page 185; the U. S. Army Recruiting Office for allowing us to take another picture on page 185; the University of Cincinnati for allowing us to use the campus for the picture on page 182.

Mr. Busch and Mr. McTamany of Shillito's for 500 senior portraits and sports, ads, and activities pictures; Tom Schiff, for patiently catering to our whims in taking last-minute photographs; Circle Engraving Company of Indianapolis for processing those last-minute photographs so quickly; the Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas, for printing our book with speed and efficiency.

The Institutum Divi Thomae for the photo on page 13; Mr. Allan Kain of The Cincinnati Enquirer for the color photograph on page 14 and the photo of the Kroger Building on page 12.

Potter's Shoe Store, who provided us with helium for the balloons in the picture on page 115; Ionna Formal Wear, who lent us the tux in the picture on page 182; Mrs. Myers, who helped Jon Robin with the cover design; the Phantom of '65, who gave us unlimited encouragement and inspiration.

Mr. Kenneth Hurm, for giving us his opinions; Miss Lenora Weber, for guiding us through some agonizing difficulties and providing inspiration when our creative ideas didn't quite materialize; Mr. Ralph Love, for helping Nancy and Marsha straighten tangled accounts and ad contracts.

The administration and faculty who were kindly tolerant of our hectic picture days; mothers of staff members who opened their homes (and their refrigerators!) to us on worknights.

Contributing writer St-John Perse, for our theme statement.

Mr. Duncan Scheidt, of Benson Photo Studios, who endured the rigors of picture days and supplied us with excellent photographic work.

Mr. Russell Benson—layout artist, photographer, and general miracle-worker—who responded to our desperate pleas for help and transformed our somewhat extravagant ideas into creative and original work.
